WILLIAM CAMPBELL HIGH SCHOOL
NARUNA, VIRGINIA 24576
VOLUME 26

All In The Family

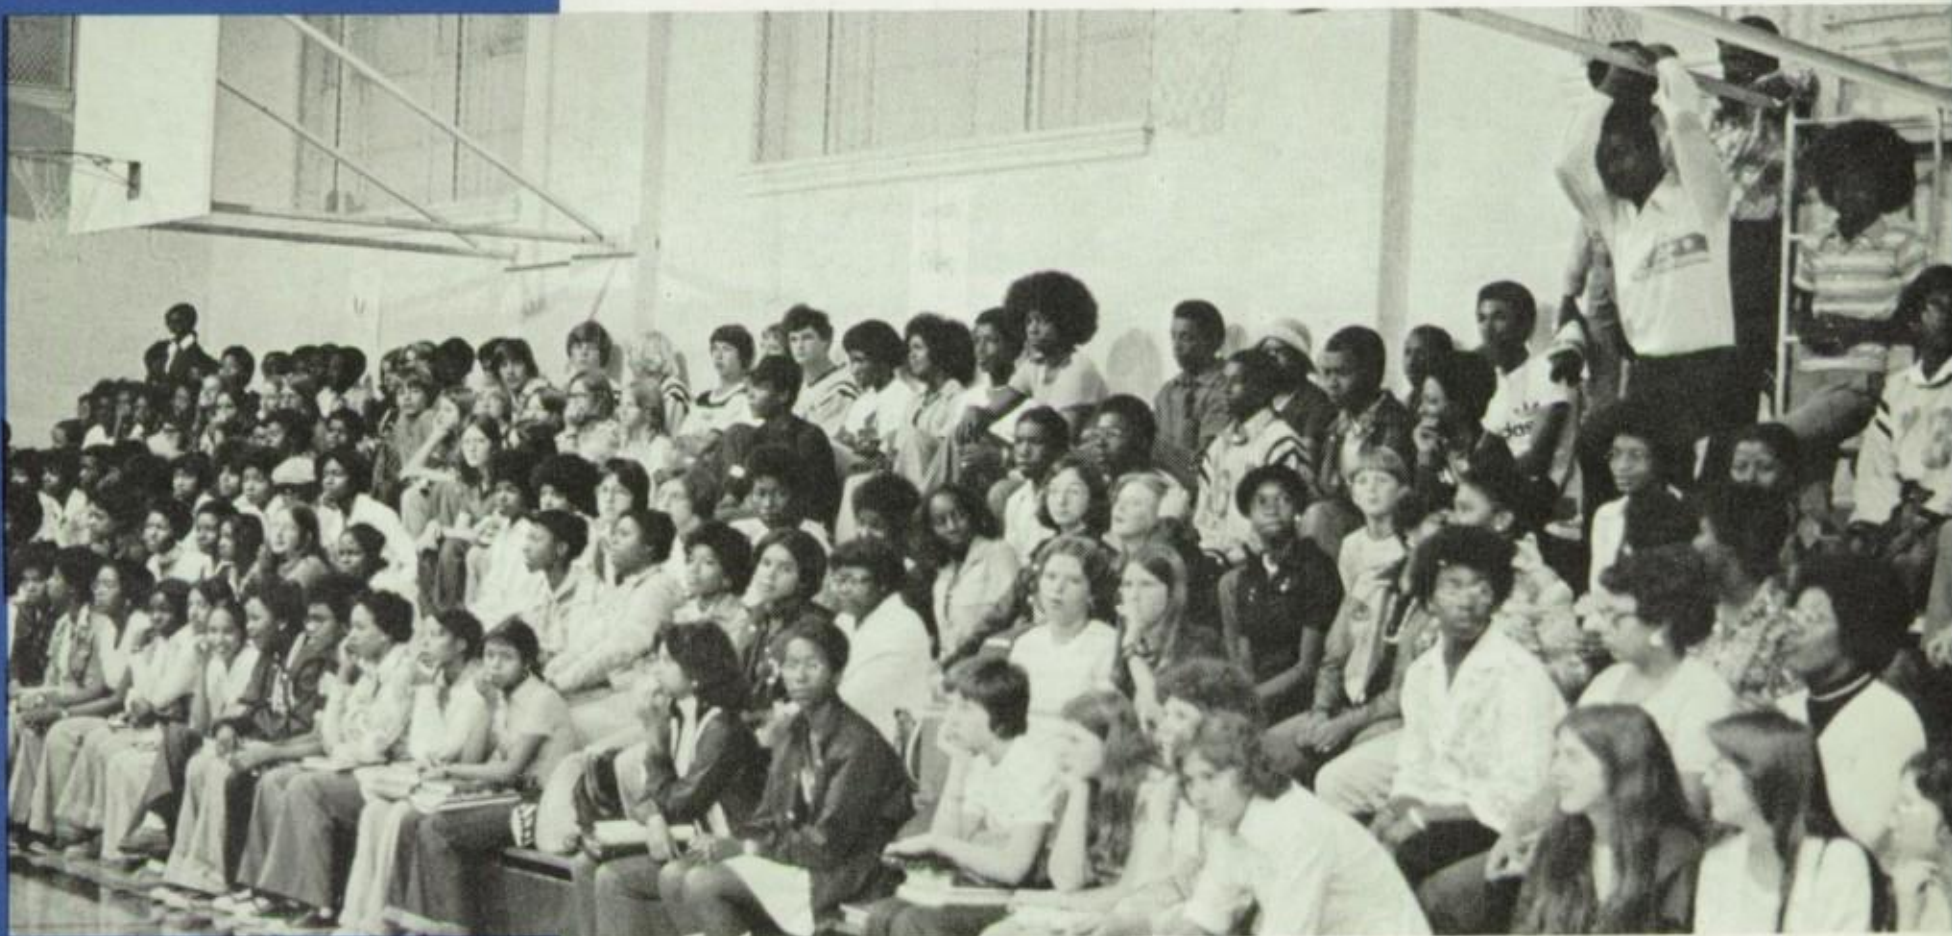

The General 77 chose as its theme "All in the Family". William Campbell has a student body composed of approximately 710 pupils and is the smallest high school in Campbell County. The smallness of the school helps to bring the students closer together, creating a family like atmosphere. The faculty member acts as a sort of parent figure to the student as each member helps each of us through our high school years. Beginning in the eighth grade, each student is assigned to a faculty member. This faculty member becomes his advisor and meets with the student early in the year to help him make a smoother transition into high school.

Every student knows just about everybody else, resulting in an overall brother-sister type relationship. Although there are usually some disagreements throughout the school between individuals, like the popular T.V. show by the same name, however, most of the time we are just one big happy family.

All families do things together and the same is true with the students and teachers of W.C.; we work, attend ball games, club meetings, classes, workshops, assemblies, and conventions together.

Accepting first place, Robin Burnette receives the certificate for The 1976 General at VHSL workshop in Charlottesville on Oct. 25.

The entire student body gathers in the gym for a short concert by Free Fare.

Teamwork makes things run smoother as Mr. Keesee and his art classes work on the homecoming float, WC I.

Doing her job as an eighth grade advisor, Mrs. Betty Yount gives Bruce Wallace a little help.

The General family and fans fill the bleachers to cheer the Generals on to victory.

Students Together

William Campbell is basically made up of students working together. There were times when the students could get together and really have fun, along with learning. Being a small school, it gave the students a chance to get to know most everyone. There were times when some of the students didn't always agree on things and then confusion developed, but that all seems to be apart of getting to know one another.

During lunch and other times when they were free, students got together and played a friendly game of football, did homework, or just enjoyed another regular rap session.

As the year progressed the students gained new friends, maybe lost old ones, but continued to learn that being together as a group brings a lot of both.

Headed for a patient wait, Marian Kirkland, Pam Napier, Debra Foster stand in line to get their individual pictures.

Just passing time away during lunch are Kevin Shorter, Watt Foster, Andy Peterson, and Billy Garrett.

Finding time during lunch to have a few laughs are Jay Williams and Mary Neighbors.

Waiting for the bell to ring, Bo Younger, Polly Bradley, Theodore McIvor, and Debbie Pennix play around.

While selling pictures Richard Leggett, Hope Vandergrift, Donna Roach, and Robin Burnette laugh together.

Student and Teacher

Getting in good with the teacher, Johnny Trent talks to Mr. Cocke while eating lunch.

So it's a cake you want, says Mrs. Crabtree to Eric Yuille in the home economics department.

Relationship

In the office, Lois Wimbush lends Mrs. Jennings a helping hand.

During the first period Literature of Mystery and Horror class William Buffalo, a study hall student, waits for his library permit.

The relationship between a teacher and student is most like that of a parent and child. When the student does wrong, he is punished and when he does right, he is rewarded. There are many teachers that students like to spend their free time with — teachers that seem like "one of the gang." These teachers are greatly respected and get along well with their students.

Lately, however, there have been several incidents which have resulted in verbal and physical exchanges between teachers and students. The fault for these incidents can not be charged entirely to one party; the fault is jointly shared by all persons who make up the total school — administration, faculty, students, parents, school boards, and any and all bodies which make decisions governing the operation of a public school. If there was mutual trust between students and teachers and all of the concerned parties and a joint feeling of respect, William Campbell could be the best school around.

With an innocent face, Ted Staton pleads with Mrs. Bennett to let him walk the halls.

Getting To

Just taking it easy are Cynthia Gunter, Fanny Hancock, Donna White, Kim Elliot and Debbie Pennix after lunch.

As hard as it is to get people to listen to you, Mike Layne tries to persuade Tony Herndon, Theodore McIvor, and Sherman Hamlett over to his way of thinking.

Enjoying their time off after lunch are Jennifer Mitchell, Patricia Palmer, and their friends at the smoking area.

Know Each Other

Just rapping together during lunch are Terry Clowdis, Allen Jones, Pat Trent, and Tina Martin.

Every school, especially a small high school like William Campbell, is a great place to get to know each other. Before school is a good time to socialize with friends about current happenings. Another excellent opportunity to meet new students and converse with old friends is at lunchtime. Since lunches are fifty-five minutes long, there is ample time to eat lunch and still get in at least twenty minutes with your favorite people.

Extra curricula activities, including sports, practice for cheerleaders or the band, and dances provide another chance to get to know each other better.

At W.C., it doesn't take long for everyone to meet everyone else. This contributes to the family-like atmosphere.

Using force to get his point across, Jeff Burroughs lifts Eric Peterson from the ground.

Assemblies

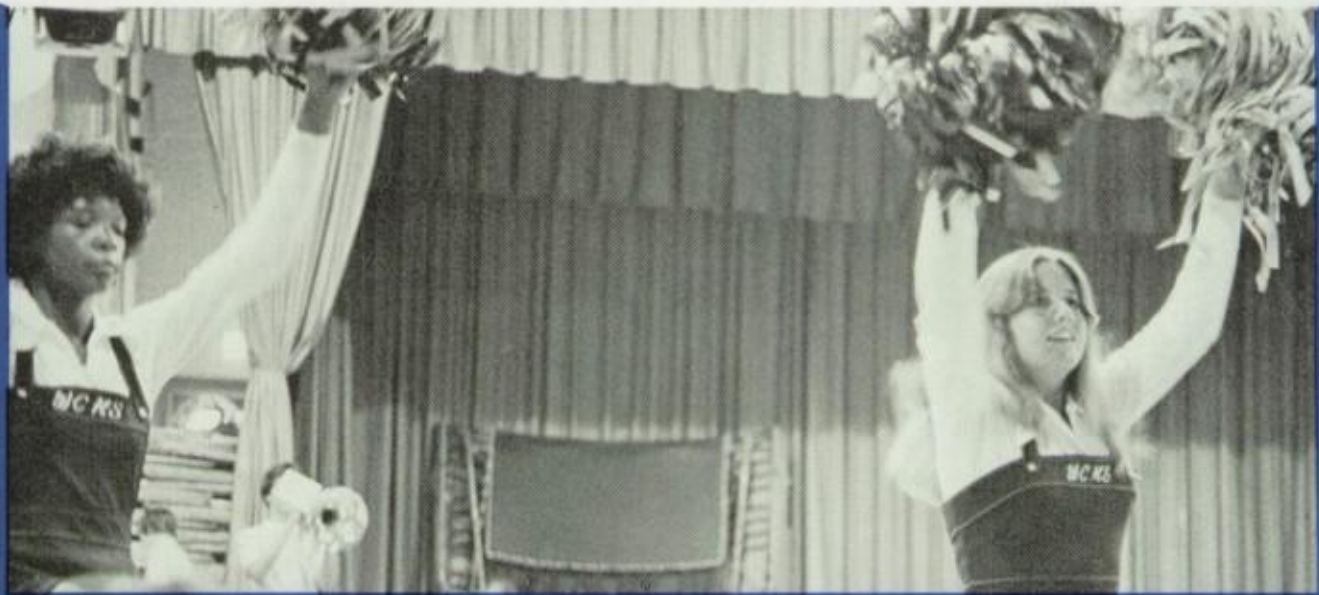

An assembly was always a welcomed thing to the student body, even if it only meant getting out of sixth period fifteen minutes early to gather with each other. We didn't have many assemblies other than pep rallies. A musical group Free Fare stopped in for a concert at the beginning of the year.

As the year progressed we did have pep rallies before home games and they seemed to go over better than the previous years. The students showed more spirit and a spirit stick was given to the class that made the most noise.

At election time an assembly was held to elect officers for the student council. The candidates were able to express their views before the whole student body. The candidates caused much excitement by the distributing of candy.

As a tradition at W.C. an Awards Assembly was held. Students were presented awards for their scholastic average, participation in sports, and in other areas.

However, assemblies for the purposes of giving talent shows, showing films or demonstrating other activities, have virtually become a thing of the past.

During a pep rally, Hope Vandergrift and Cynthia Davis show their spirit to the student body by doing a routine to "The Horse".

With smiles on their faces, Debra Cunningham and Charlene Adams wait for the assembly to begin.

The eighth graders wait anxiously to show their spirit at a pep rally.

On Thursday, September 9, Free Fare, a Christian rock group from Sarasota, Florida, presented a concert of music and testimony to the students.

The band, Free Fare, presents a concert in the gym.

Couples

With a frown on her face, Emma Pennix talks with Sam Younger.

During lunch Kipp Burch listens patiently to what Donna Roach has to say.

Talking outside the cafeteria in their usual place are Amy Foster and Andy Carr.

School was not just for books and teachers but it was a place where students could get to know members of the opposite sex. It usually started with a few brief chats between classes or during lunch and then before you knew it that couple was "going together". Couples, ranging from eighth graders to seniors, could be seen almost everywhere—in the halls, library, cafeteria, etc.

Here at W.C. we have a "hands-off" policy, a rule prohibiting any physical show of affection during school hours. Some couples have been called to the office for not obeying this rule but most students showed a little more couth and behaved themselves.

Most of the students at W.C. found someone with whom they could share the good times along with the bad.

During second lunch Ricky Fisher and Maxine Putnam enjoy their ice cream outside the bandroom.

1977-Styles in clothing varied from faded jeans with tennis shoes to informal dress with platform shoes. The different styles reflected all the different and individual personalities of the members of our large school "family."

We saw a great deal of casual wear of the usual variety, but 1977 brought back the goucho and the cowboy boot. The sweater, whether it was worn with the usual jean, dress slack, midi-skirt, or goucho was very much a part of the student wardrobe, both male and female. We also noticed that many of the guys wore flannel shirts.

There didn't seem to be too wide a variation of styles between teacher and student dress. Teacher dress was generally more conservative but showed a general trend toward the latest in casual attire.

As the year progressed, dress styles changed, sometimes to modify older trends and sometimes to include the newest "fad."

Styles

With today's styles, Watt Foster, Billy Garrett, Kevin Shorter, and Andy Peterson show off their flannel shirts.

Rings! Class rings are popular among students, whether it's your own or somebody else's.

You see many different styles of shoes all around.

A teacher who is sure to stay in style is Mrs. Barbara Clark in her gouchos.

Never behind on styles, Robin Burnette repairs her favorite jeans.

Band

Band . . . students who spent countless hours of practicing and performing became a family within itself, as well as supporters of the football team and the student body. The William Campbell Marching Generals performed during halftime at all varsity home games and attended the Richmond Tobacco Festival and received second in the division and third overall. The band added extra touches with flags, rifles, majorettes, and drum majors, and, not to mention, the new uniforms which they worked so hard to get. In order to raise money for new instruments the band presented, among many things, a haunted house during the week before Halloween.

English Study

The English-Study Tour Group was established for the first time. Although the school sponsored a trip to Germany in 1972, this was the first trip to England. The group departed on April 9 and returned on April 17. This was only the second trip sponsored by the school in its history.

The group made money selling oil lamps, having car washes and bake sales, holding an arts and crafts show, and by individual and group projects.

Students had to meet the following requirements: (1) Must be passing all subjects at the end of the first semester. (2) Take the course England in Literature and pass it! (3) Must raise money for the trip by yourself.

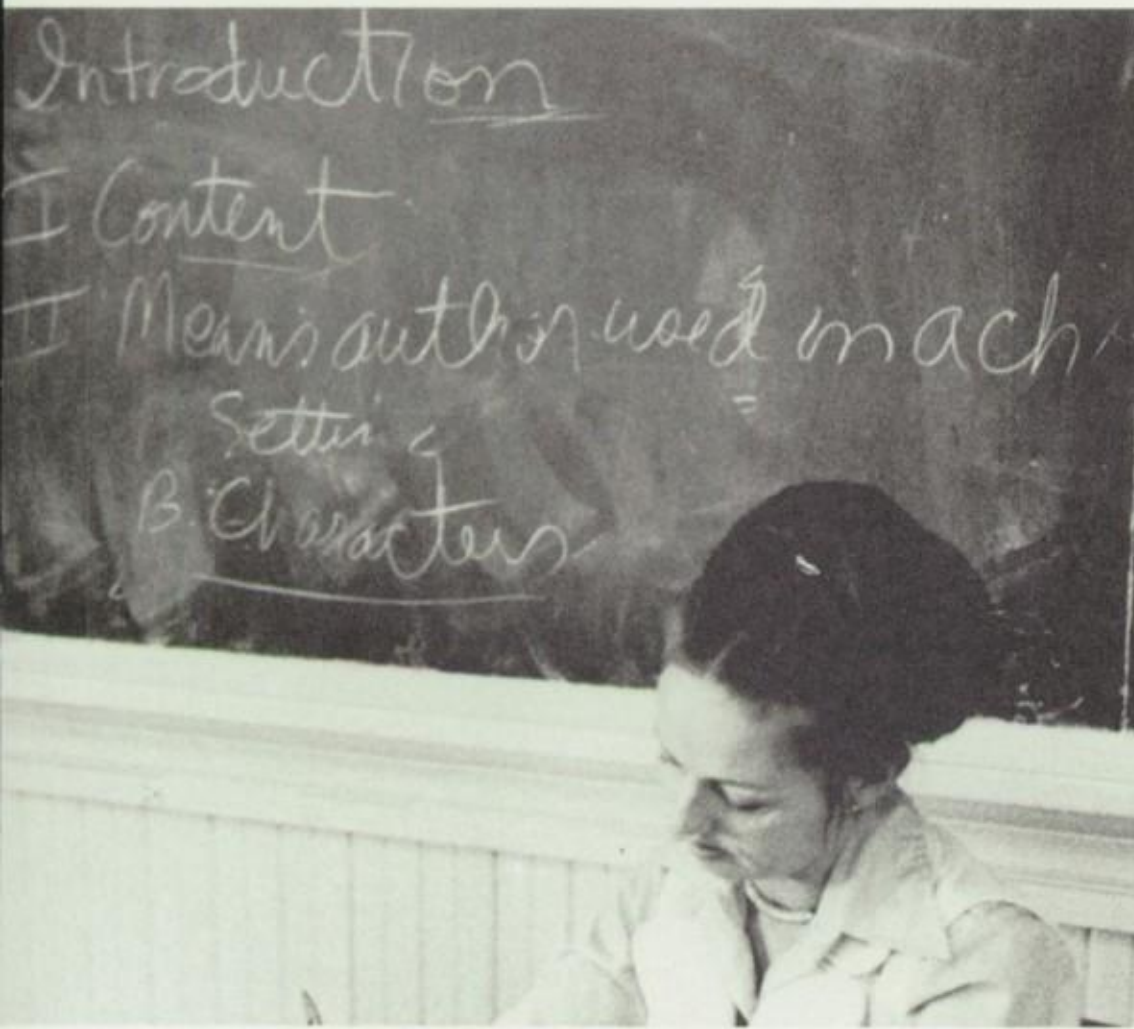

In London, they witnessed the changing of the guards and toured the entire city. They took trips to several castles such as Windsor, Hampton Court, and Salisbury. They visited the campus of Oxford University, paid tribute to the ruins of Stonehenge, and took a trip into Shakespeare Country at Stratford-on-Avon.

The officers of the group were as follows: President, Eddie Hughes; Secretary, Cindy Roakes; Treasurer, Penny Williams and the sponsors were Mrs. Patricia Davidson and Mr. Edwin Temples.

SPIRIT WEEK

The Week of Spirit was planned to arouse excitement for the Homecoming game against Nelson County. Many new ideas were used for each day of spirit. Monday was Mix-Match Day; Tuesday, Cowboy and Indian Day; Wednesday, Crazy Hats and Glasses; Thursday, Inside-Outside and J.V. Slave Day. Friday, the last day of Spirit Week, was Blue and Gray and Varsity Slave Day. Many students participated for this particular day as we have done in the past years. The Football and Basketball cheerleaders gave a pep rally to climax Spirit Week.

Leisurely walking into Mr. Watkin's second period class, Brenda Dillard shows her spirit on Cool Hat and Glasses day.

An unidentified person shows her spirit on Cowboy and Indian Day by dressing as a cowgirl.

Being cool on Crazy Hat and Glasses day outside the annex are Ricky Fisher, Wendy Waller, and Devery Wade.

To show that he has the General spirit, Mr. Coates dresses for Cowboy and Indian Day during spirit week.

To show her spirit, Sharon Isaacs participates in the third day of Spirit Week which was Cool Hat and Glasses day.

HOME COMING COURT

The Homecoming Court was made up of seven dazzling girls. The girls were very appropriately dressed in silver jumpsuits and carried silver bouquets. This really set off the theme which was "The Future". After all the girls were promptly announced the Homecoming Queen, Vivian Bennett, was crowned by Roger Morrow and then received red roses from Ray Ward. All the girls were then taken off the field on the float, W.C. 1.

On homecoming night Vivian Bennett was crowned Homecoming Queen by Mr. Ray Ward.

HOMECOMING NIGHT 76

Oh what a night! Late October 1976. Yes, what a night it proved to be! The whole family and fans were excited; everyone had been waiting for the Homecoming game since the beginning of the football season.

Tension was building in the air before the game. Would we beat our Homecoming game against Nelson County? We defeated them last year on homecoming; would it possibly happen again?

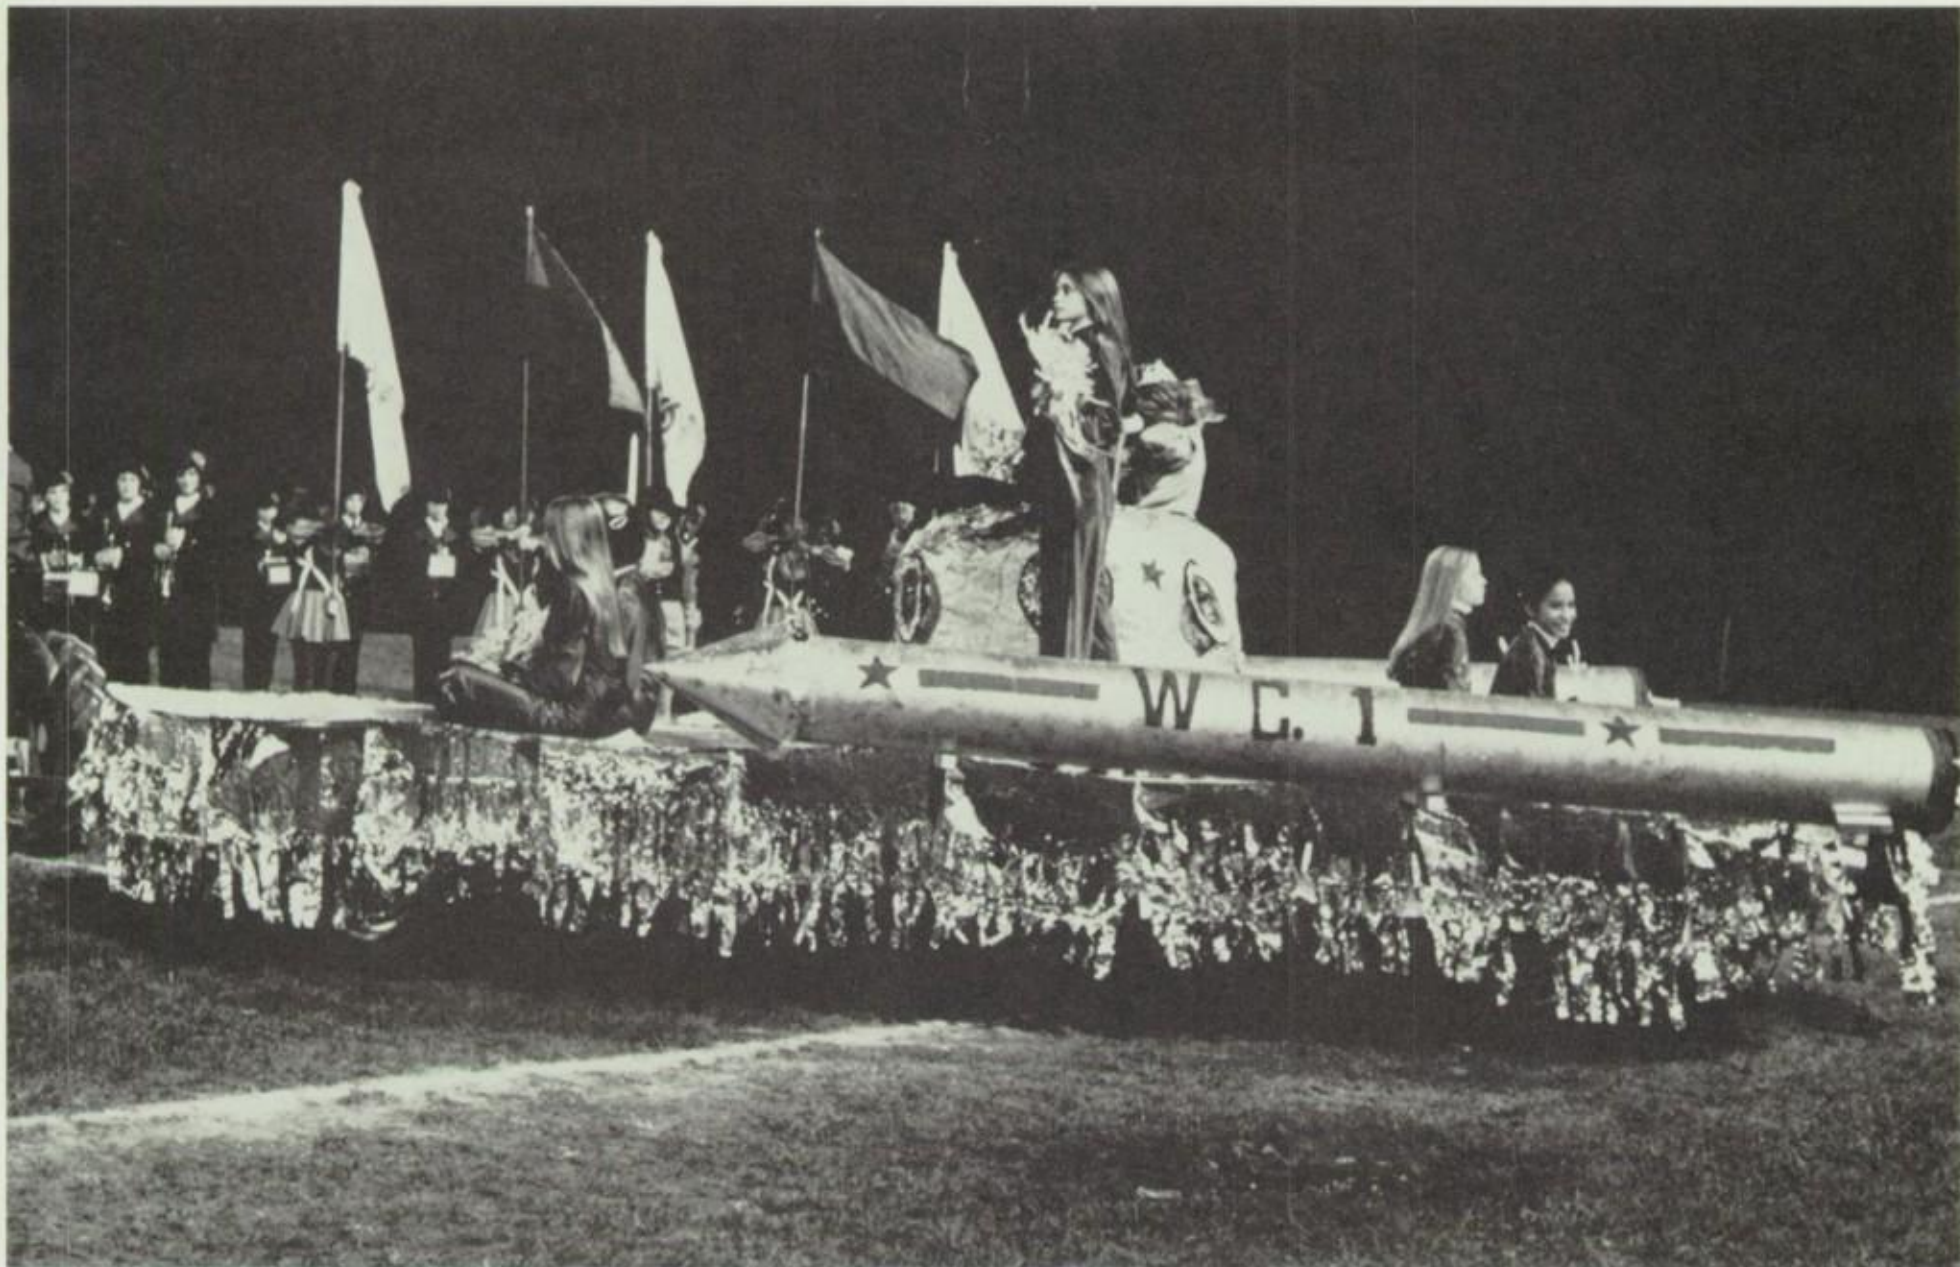

Yes! The mighty Generals took another victory against Nelson County. The Generals shut-out Nelson County 16-0.

Attempting to catch a pass from Kip Burch is Tony Herndon (80).

The Homecoming Court rode the float W.C. I on to the football field.

On a running play, Ricky Davis advances the ball against Nelson County.

HOMECOMING DANCE

Right after the game, students and alumni crowded into the gym with smiles on their faces to boogy down to the music of the "Soul Brothers Plus."

The band played a lot of the latest hits. Everyone had a good time. Some of the students were able to persuade their older brothers or sisters to dance with them.

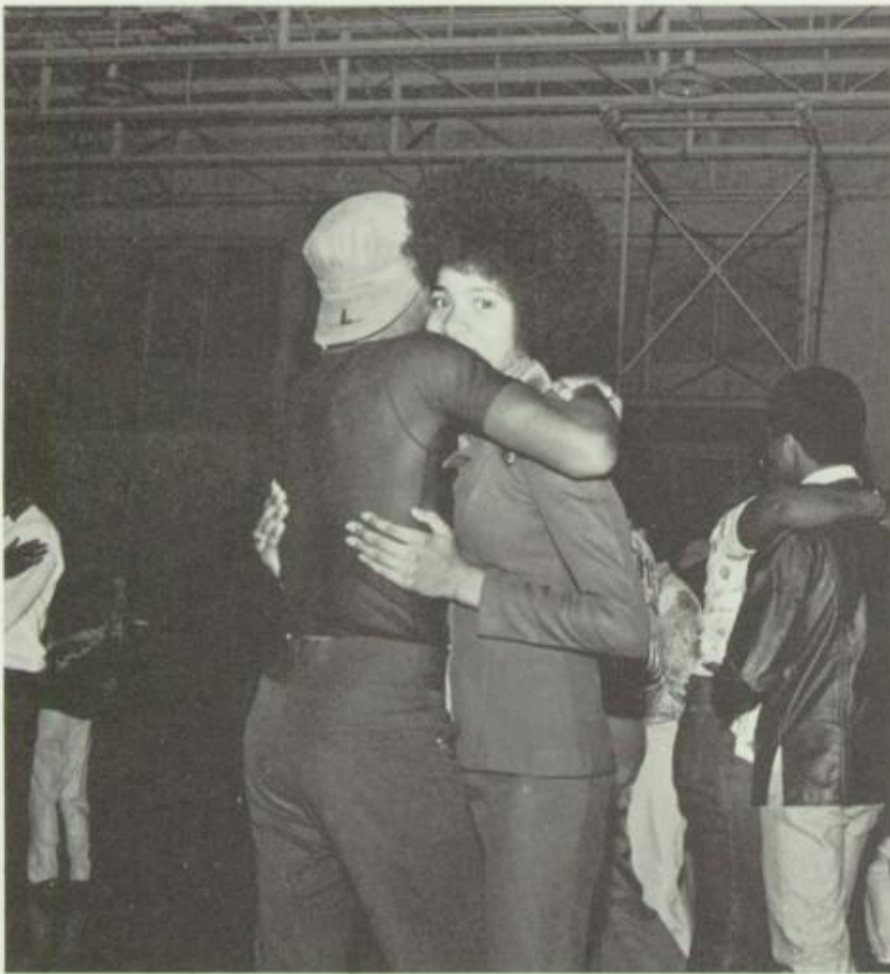

The dance was sponsored by the S.C.A.

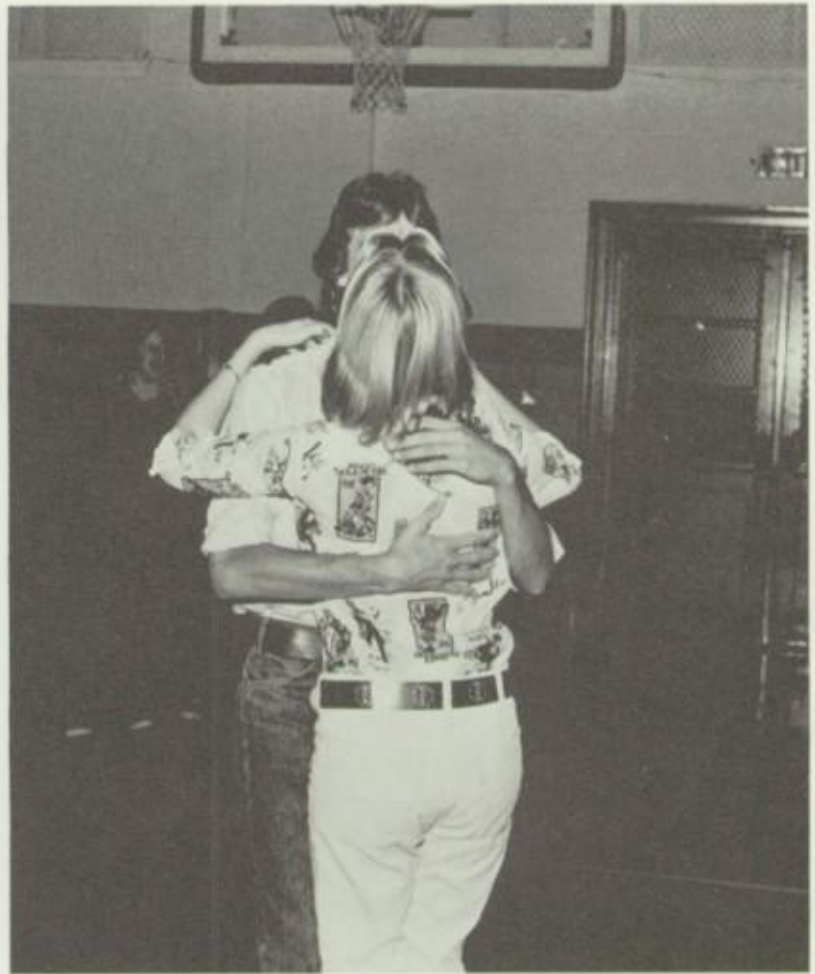

Exhausted from dancing, these students just sit back and watch.

With a smile on his face, Burnett Neighbors drags with Judy Dodd.

While drifting with the music, Hattie Mitchell and Larry Scott try to carry on a conversation.

Making the best of their first slow dance together are Lloyd Blanks and Glennis St. John.

Providing the music for the Homecoming Dance is the band, Soul Brothers Plus, selected by S.C.A.

PLAYTIME

It is true that school was a place to learn, but it was also a place to have fun. The students had many ways of passing their time. They included playing cards, checkers, chess, football and some snowball fights when the weather was right. A few of the students played when they were not supposed to, but they learned very quickly not to, after a few trips to the office.

Playtime was just as important as classtime to the students because it gave them a break in what sometimes seemed a monotonous routine and they had a chance to loosen up before settling down to another class.

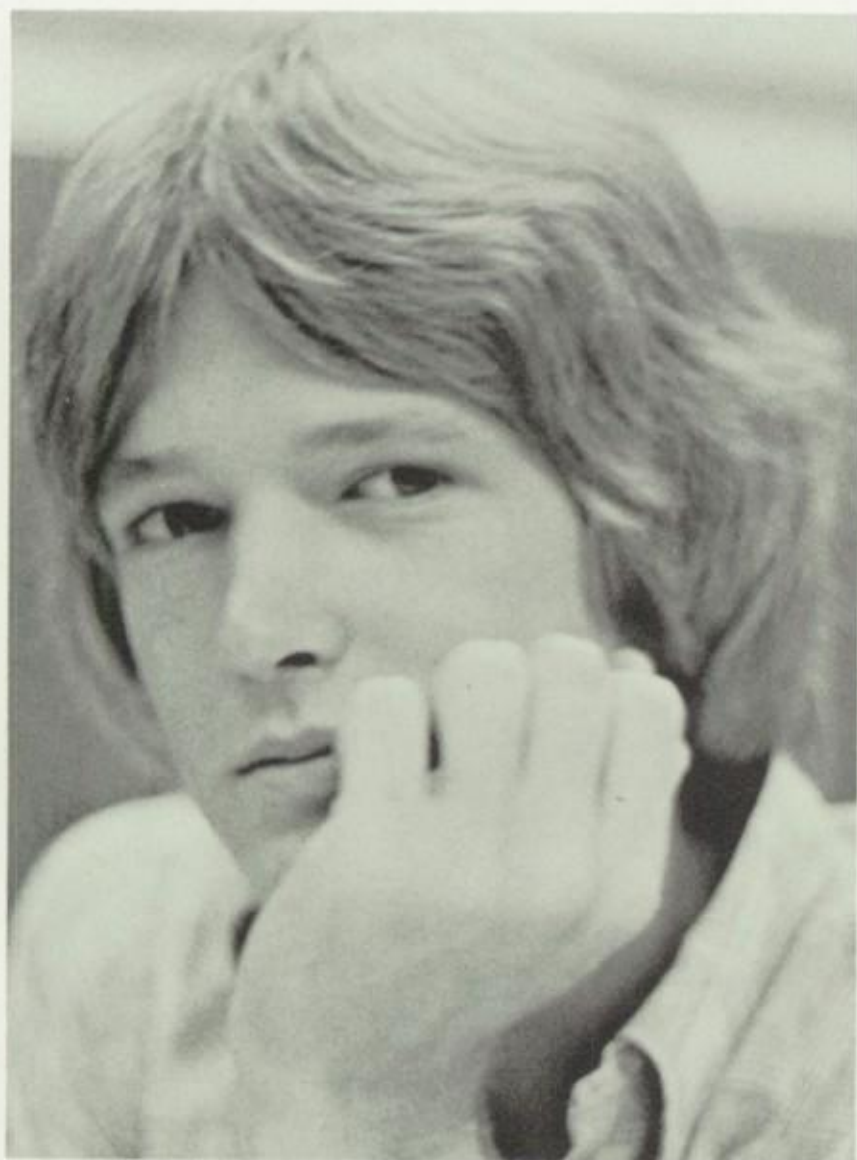

Horsing around, Ray Croner has George Mitchell in a position, in which he can't fight back.

Just "a picking and a grinning" in the bandroom are Robert Clowdis, Chuck Overby, and Greg Williams.

Students sign up for their English classes with Mrs. Davidson.

Robbie Putnam spends a lot of his time daydreaming in class.

After observing the lunch, Brenda Walker looks for a good place to sit while Sharon Callaham waits patiently in line.

Before School

A big change in the school's schedule was that homeroom took in at 8:25 instead of the past year's time of 8:45.

The students who drove to school usually sat out in their cars and talked or smoked a cigarette. A few students went to the library to catch up on some reading or do their homework.

Like a lot of other students, Sally Lee drives her own car to school each morning.

Loafin' in the halls is often practiced by Robbie Putman, Kevin Shorter, and Billy Garrett before school.

Before school, Robert Clowdis, Chuck Overby, Mary Ann Dunkley, Elaine Leggett and Buddy Crews gather in the band-room to catch up on all the latest happenings.

On her way to homeroom after the bell had rung, Senior, Jackie Colbert, starts the day off with a smile.

In Class

It was true that learning was not the only thing that went on during class period. Students did a various number of things. They studied a little, played cards, fell asleep, talked and sneaked a snack.

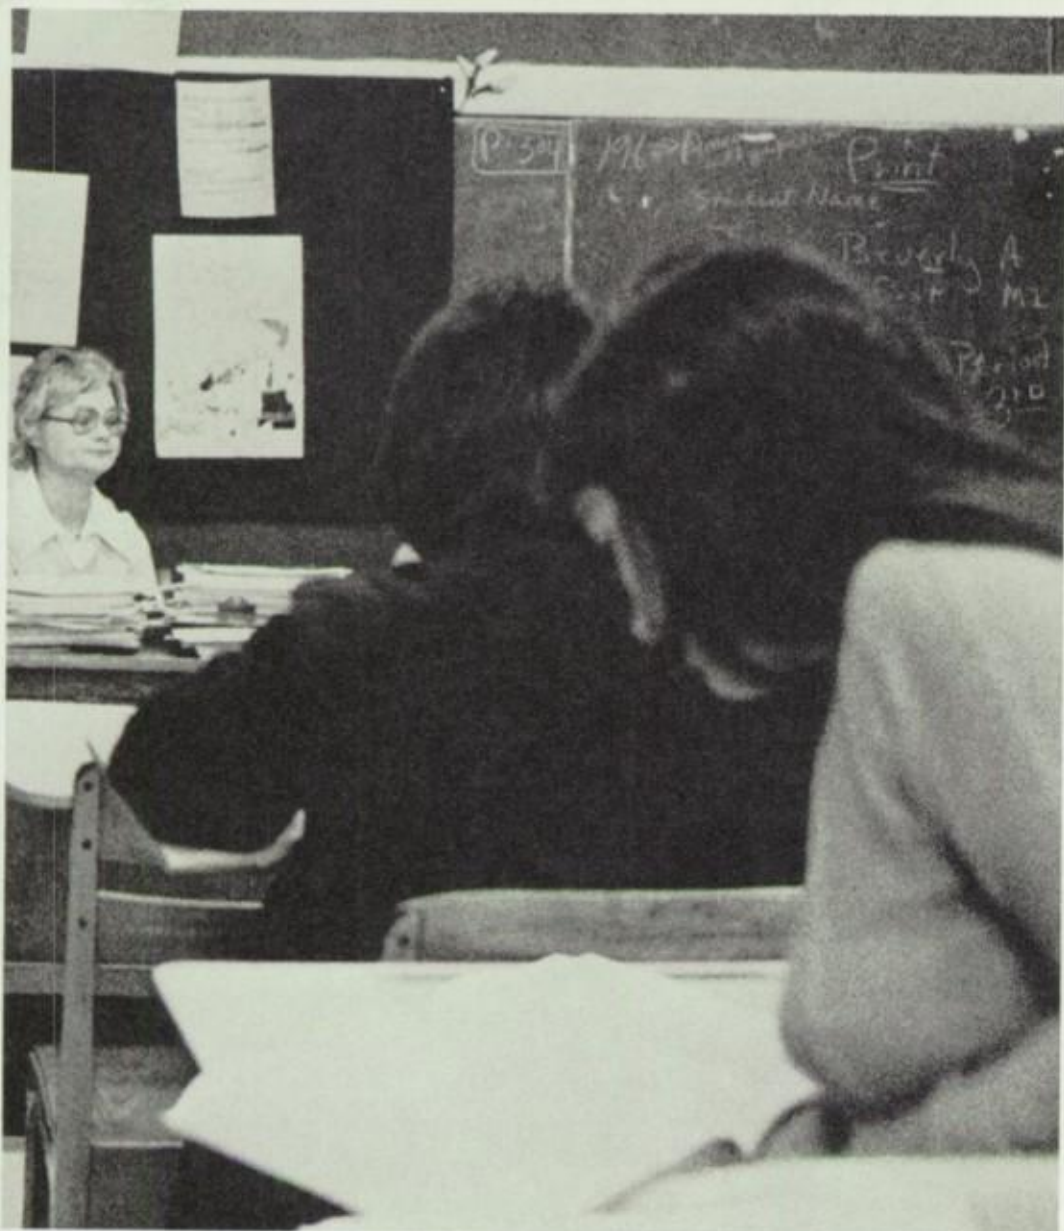

It depended a lot on the teacher whether a student was really doing his lessons or just goofing off in class.

In fifth period American Drama class, Glennis St. John catches up on some lost sleep.

In the Christmas mood, Michelle Monroe and Betty Clark sit in the home economics room and try to think up other decorations for the tree.

Studying notes, Cheryl Parent and Brenda Handy sit in Miss Jones' English class.

Part of Mrs. Lottie Perrow's job in English Elective courses was instructing students like Edith Scott and Jannie Pannell.

Between Classes

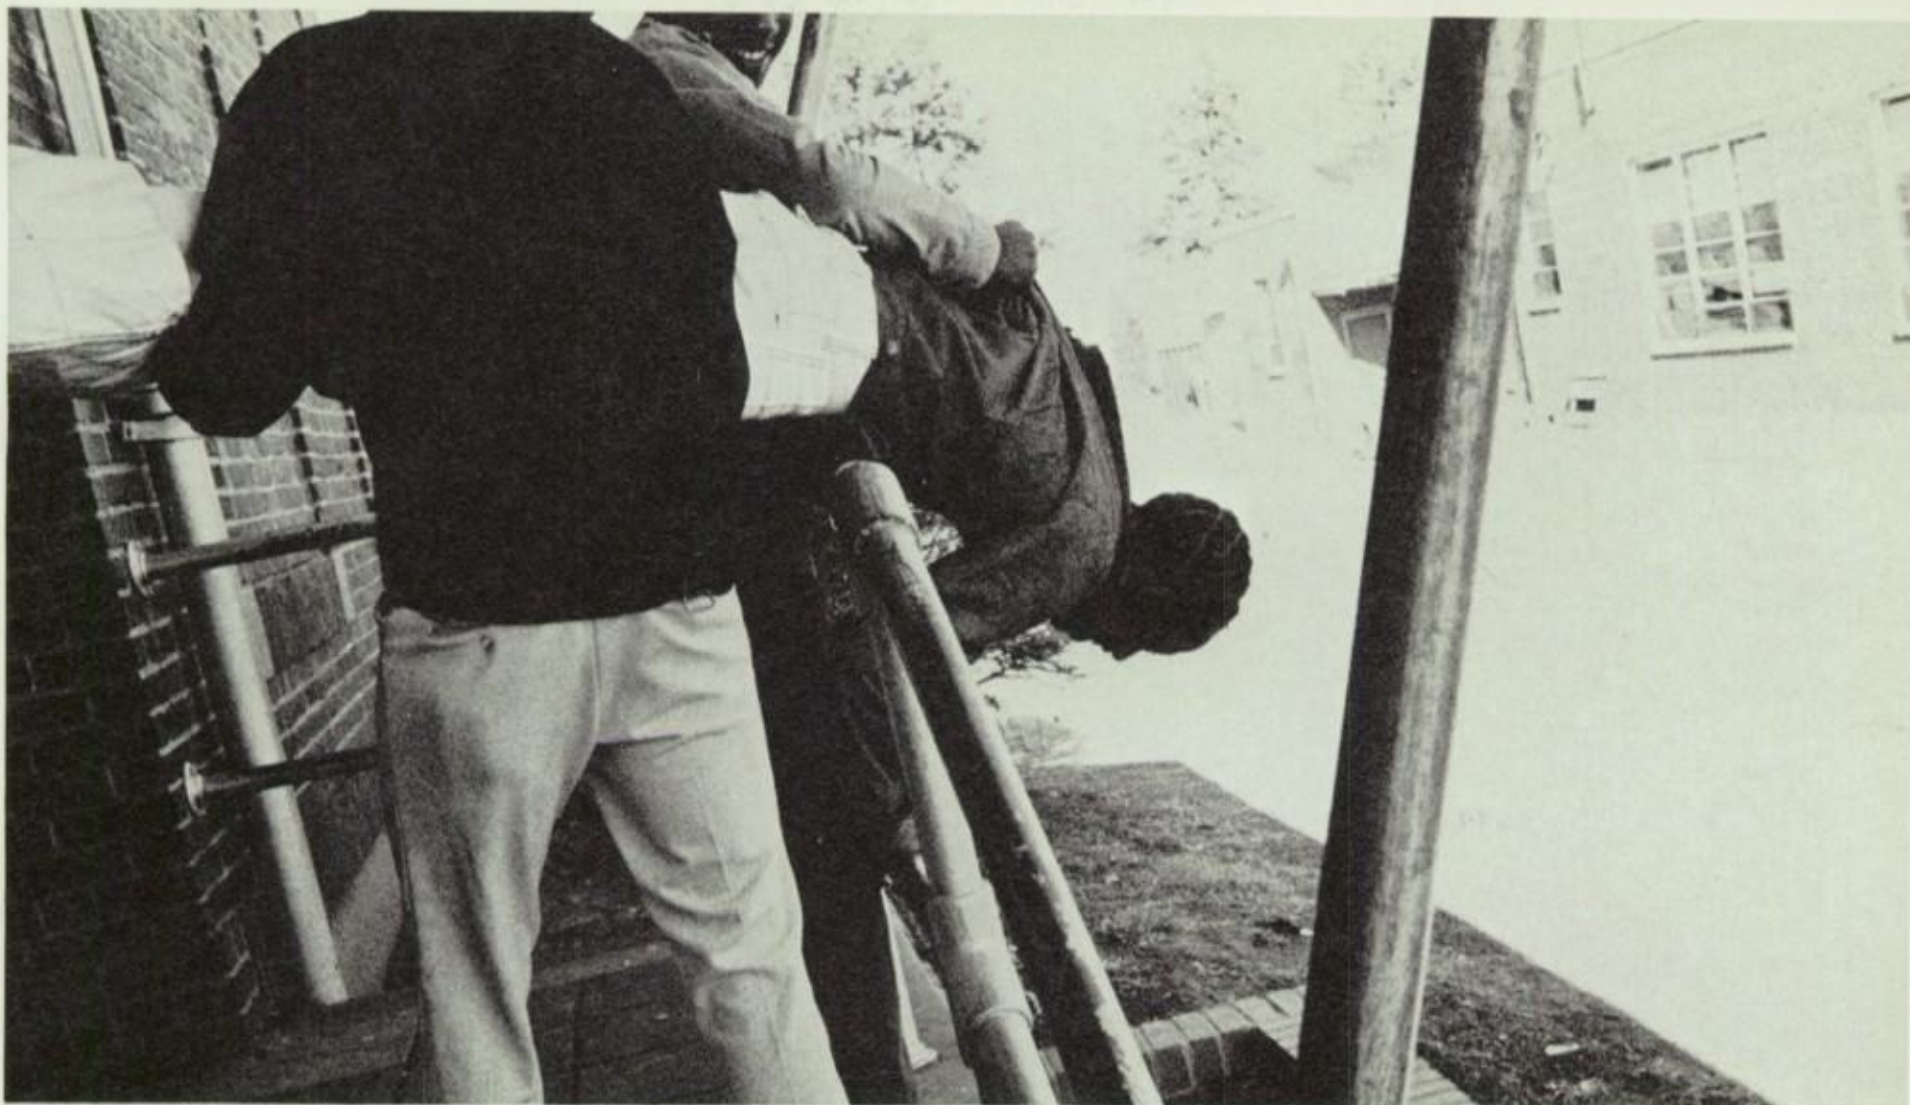

When the bell rings at the end of a class period, students have five minutes to get to their next class. Most students use this time to go to their locker, or the bathroom, to talk with friends, or get something to eat or drink. Some students use the time between classes to smoke a cigarette. Regardless of how the time is spent, the important thing is to get to class before the tardy bell rings because three tardies mean a trip to the office.

Between classes the halls fill for the five-minute relay race to the next class.

With five minutes between classes, students coming from the annex waste little time going from 1st period class to 2nd period class.

Horsing around between classes, two guys give Glenn Rouff a lift over the railing of the annex.

In a rush, Terry Bell, Tammy Thurman and Sandra Collier quicken their pace to get to class on time.

Lunch Time

One thing that the students had in common was that they all liked lunchtime, whether it was spent eating lunch, talking to your friends, or just taking a break from the day's routine. There was a big change in the lunch schedule this year. Instead of three lunch periods we only had two, but they lasted longer. Students who attended the Vo-Tech school ate lunch at 11:15 in order to be on the bus and leave by 11:30. The first lunch period started at 11:30 and the second at 12:10 with the seniors leaving five minutes earlier than the underclassmen. Seniors also had the privilege of breaking in the lunchline.

Students who received free lunch tickets were also faced with changes. They had to get their ticket in the morning before school instead of at the lunchline. Some of these students complained that they didn't have enough time in the morning to get their ticket and report to homeroom on time. This change came about as a result of a suggestion made by a HEW representative of the federal government.

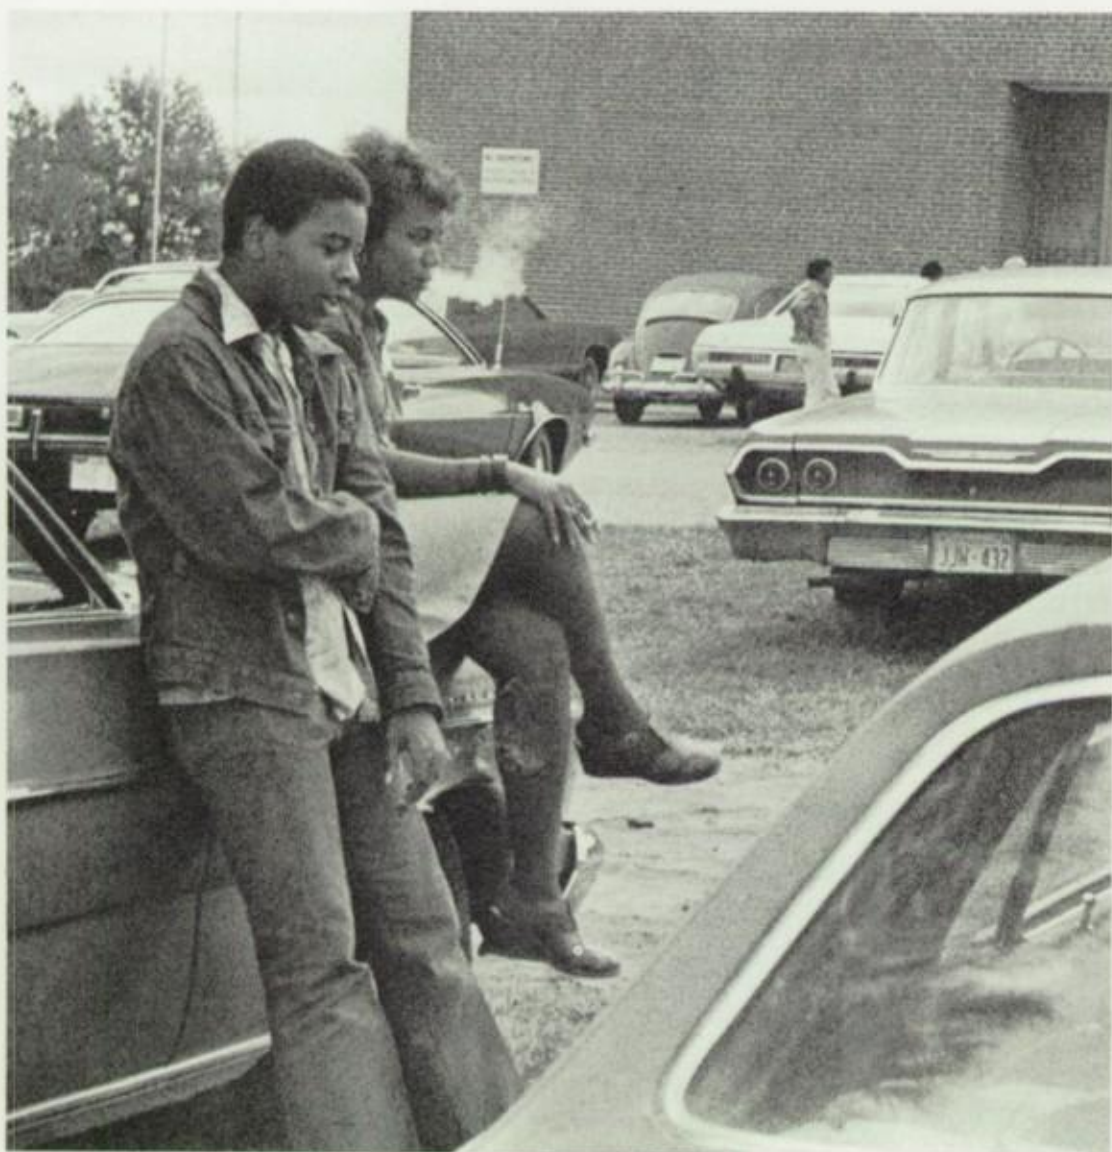

Just a rest stop. Bill Davis leans against the wall while Melvin Adams, Wayne Brogdon, William Armistead, and Freddie Jackson jive around during lunch.

While enjoying their lunch Susan Elder, Tammie Fallen, and Edna Loyd rap about what's going on.

Students wait patiently in line to get their lunch.

While enjoying their fifty-five minute lunch period, Ronnie Tisdale and Jeanette Winstead smoke a cigarette in the parking lot and enjoy rapping with each other.

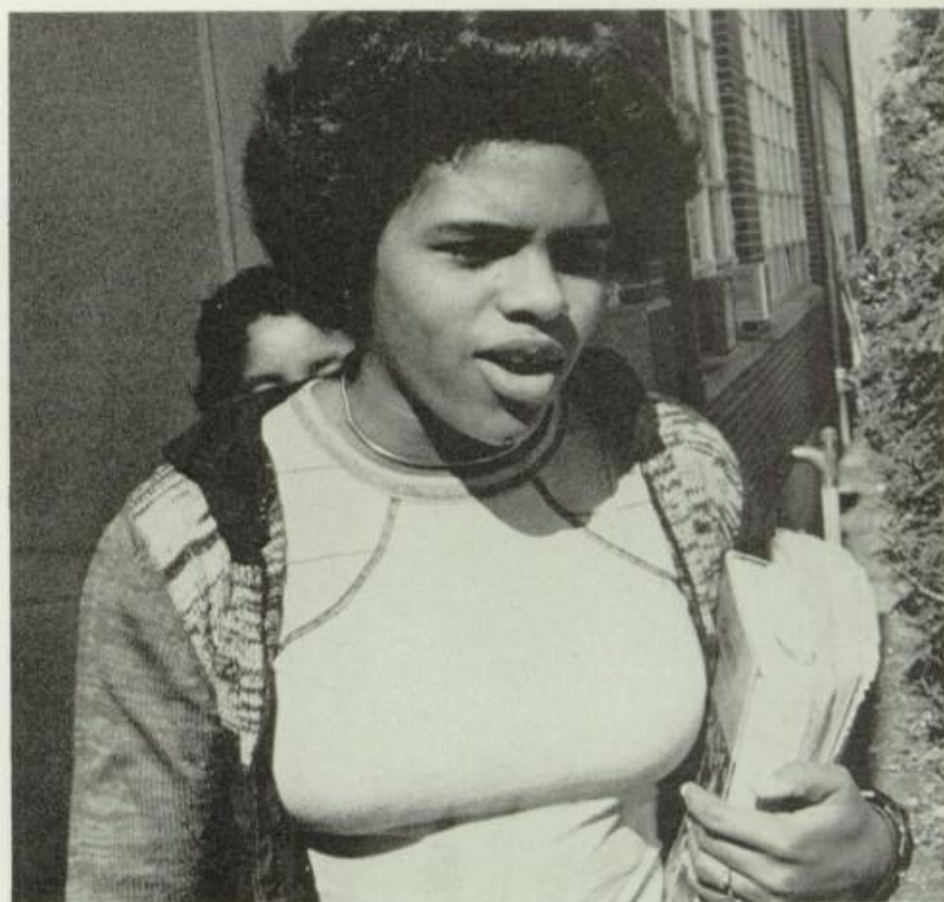

After School

The bell rang at 2:55 and students rushed to their lockers and out to their busses or cars, but many stayed behind and others were to return. That bell started the beginning of many different activities. There were all types of practices, such as, Outdoor Track, Tennis, Baseball, Softball, Cheerleading, One Act Play, Debate, Forensics and later on, at night, Musical practice. At the beginning of the year all clubs met after school but, starting the second semester, most of the clubs met on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month.

Some students had to stay after school as a form of discipline, for skipping a class during the day. Teachers also were required, by contract, to stay after school until 3:30 p.m. However, many teachers, as well, stayed to supervise afternoon practices, and others were to return for night practices, or activities.

At track practice Reggie Mosby, Ricky Davis, Theodore McIvor and Norrys Calloway carry on some foolishness while they warm up.

After school Vickie Crews proceeds to find her bus to go home.

At the end of the day, Robert Adams leaves the school building and heads for his bus.

Students rush to their busses and cars when the 2:55 bell rings.

Many girls stay after school to try out for the softball team.

Goofing off after school is Tony Clark.

At 2:55 most students rush to get on the bus while others such as Edward Adams remain after school.

Valentine Dance

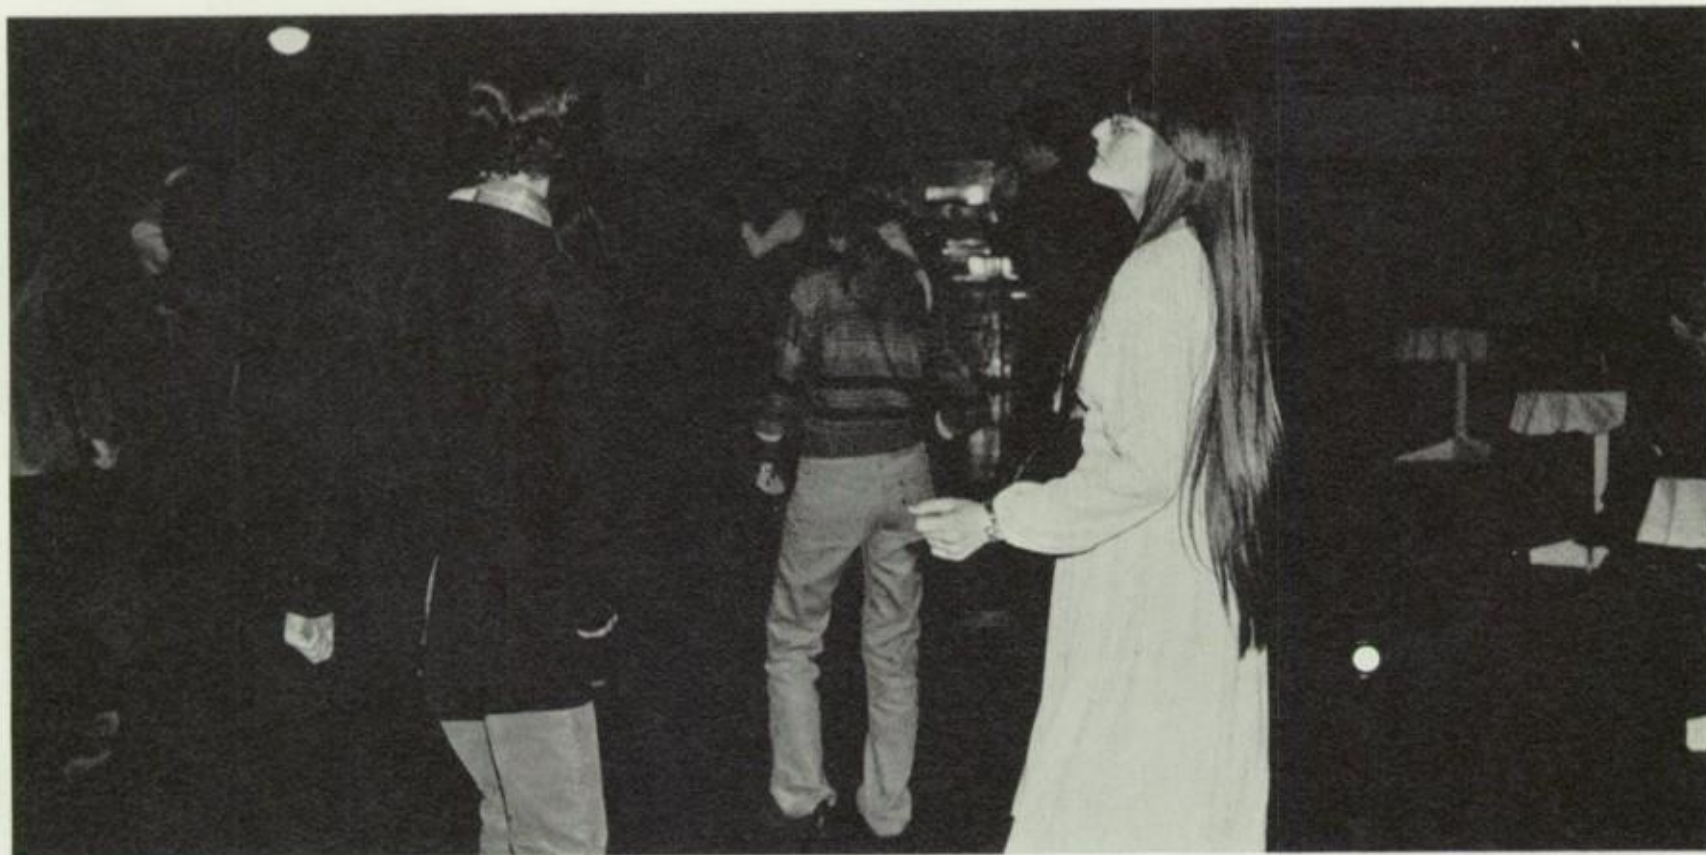

The Valentine Dance was an event enjoyed by both students and teachers. The atmosphere was one they both could enjoy. With streamers, balloons, red hearts, and soft candle lighting, the S.C.A. was able to turn the school's gym into a romantic place where couples could really get down to the music by the Classic V of Keysville. Since the attire for the dance was semi-formal, students had to pull out their best threads. It was a place and time for all students to get together and have a really good time.

At the Valentine Dance Mrs. Betty Jennings and her husband stroll through the tunnel of love, constructed by Mr. C. Edwin Temples and various S.C.A. officers and members.

The music for the Valentine Dance was provided by the Classic V, a group from Keysville, Va.

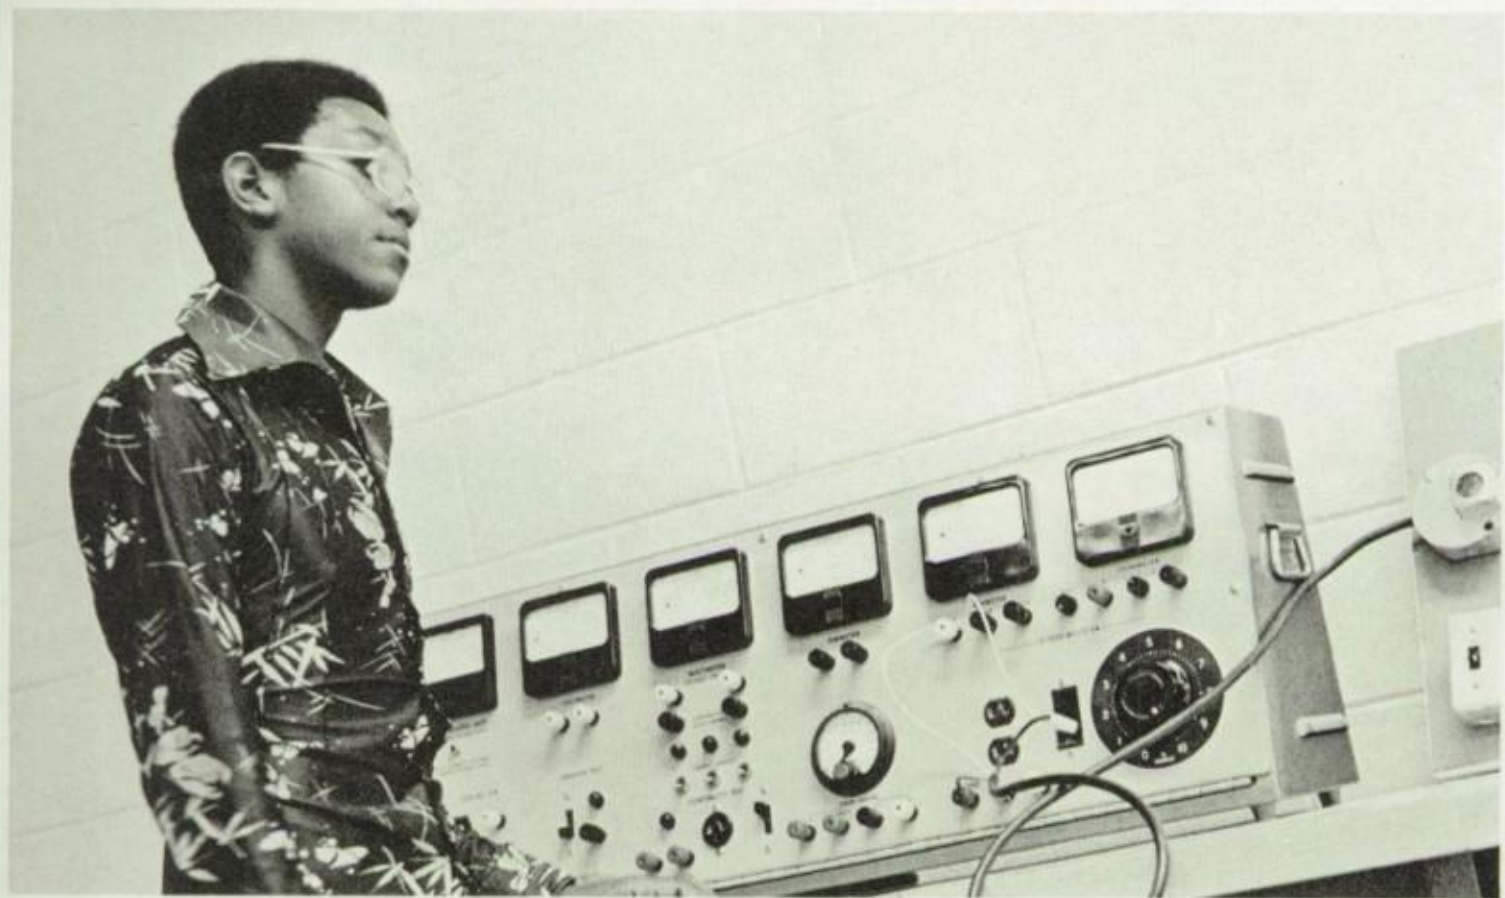

At the Valentine Dance, Danny Mays, Tammy Fallen, and many other students get down to the music by the Classic V.

During the Valentine Dance, Jackie Brown, Meg Jennings, and Debbie McKinney sit and watch the crowd dance.

WHAT'S NEW?

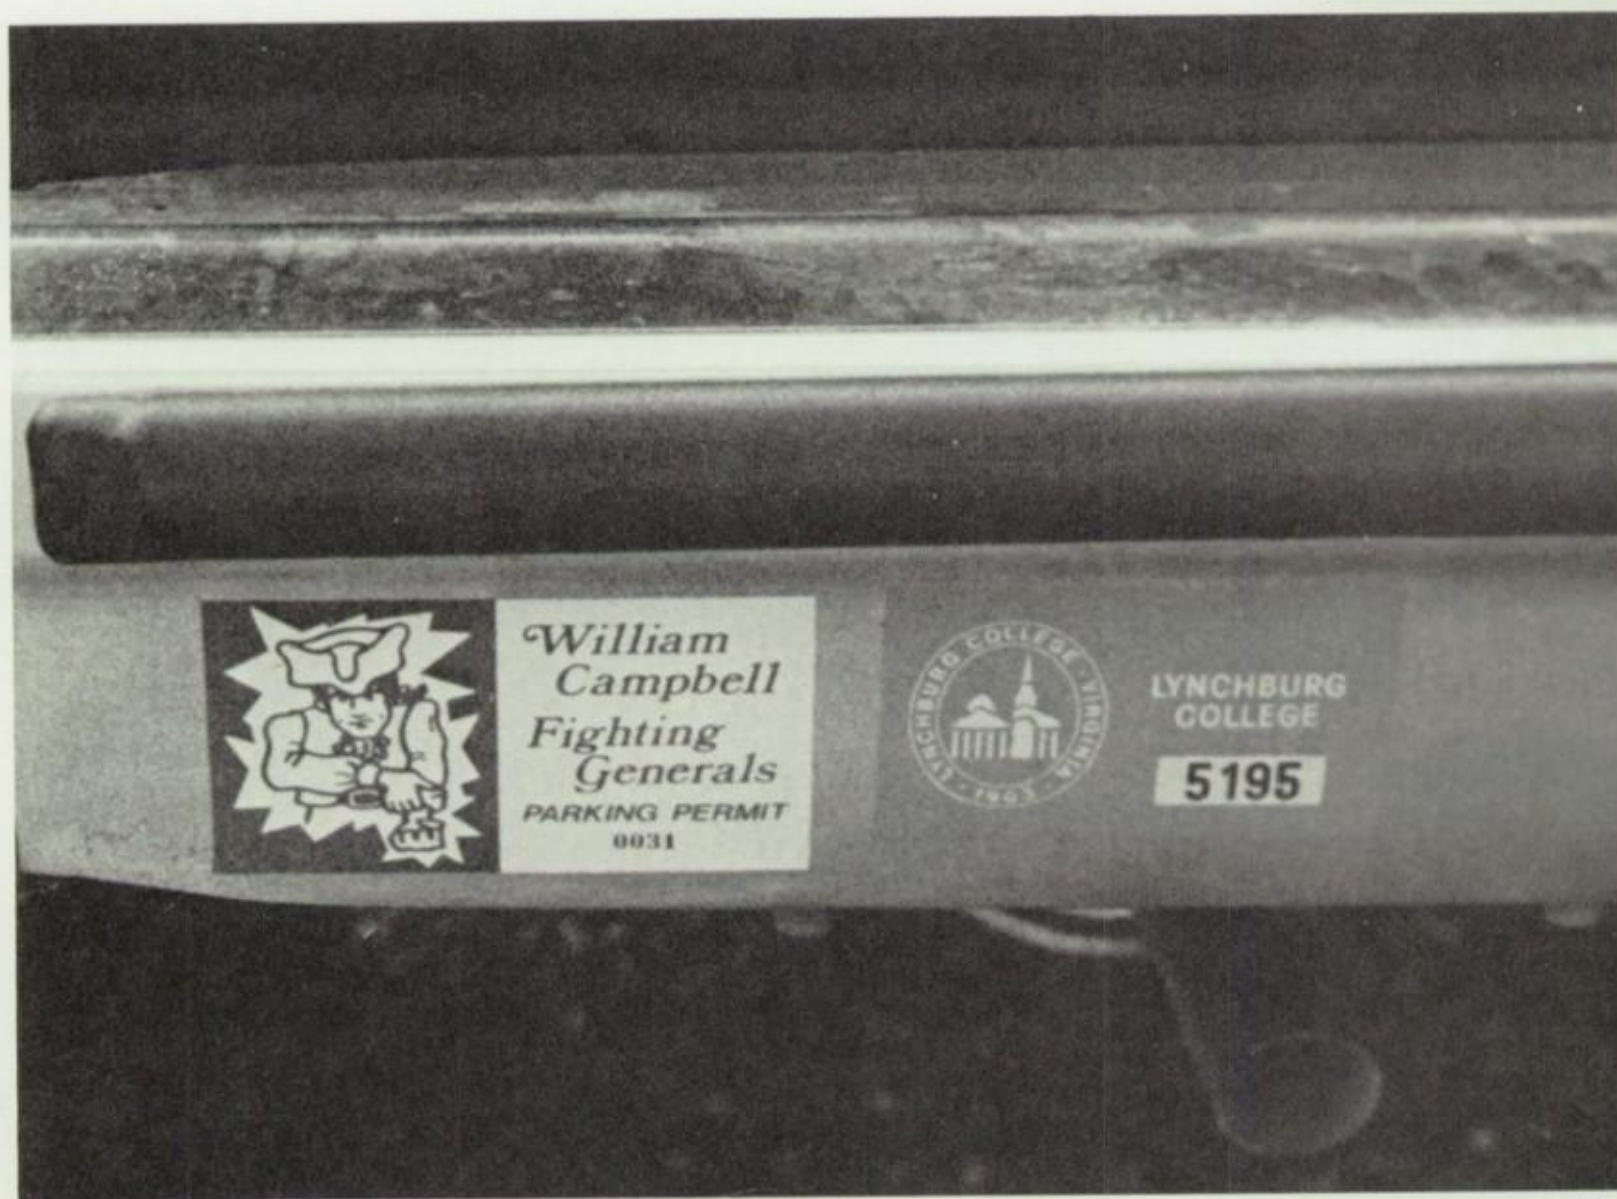

With each new year comes change, whether it be in the form of persons or things. Among the faculty there were six new teachers, including Mr. Elliott Watkins, Mr. Gene Graves, Miss Hattie Adams, Mr. Keith Scruggs, Mr. David Shelton, Mrs. Brenda Story and two teacher-aides Mrs. Meg Jennings and Mr. Gray Stimpson. Among the new things were the blue and white design for the General parking stickers, which were purchased by each student who parked his car at school. A new area, under the shelter in the student parking lot, was provided for the smokers of W.C. It changed the entire school schedule. School started fifteen minutes early and school let out five minutes earlier last year. The students who went to the Vo-Tech Center only spent half of the day at W.C., and the other half at the Vo-Tech Center. There was a change in lunch schedule from three lunch periods to two lunch periods, giving the student a lunch break of approximately forty-five minutes.

Demonstrating how the electrical machine works at the Vo-Tech Center is William Armstead.

Taking time to rap at the smoking room before school are Les Roark and Mel DeJarnette.

This year's parking sticker displays the new General Mascot.

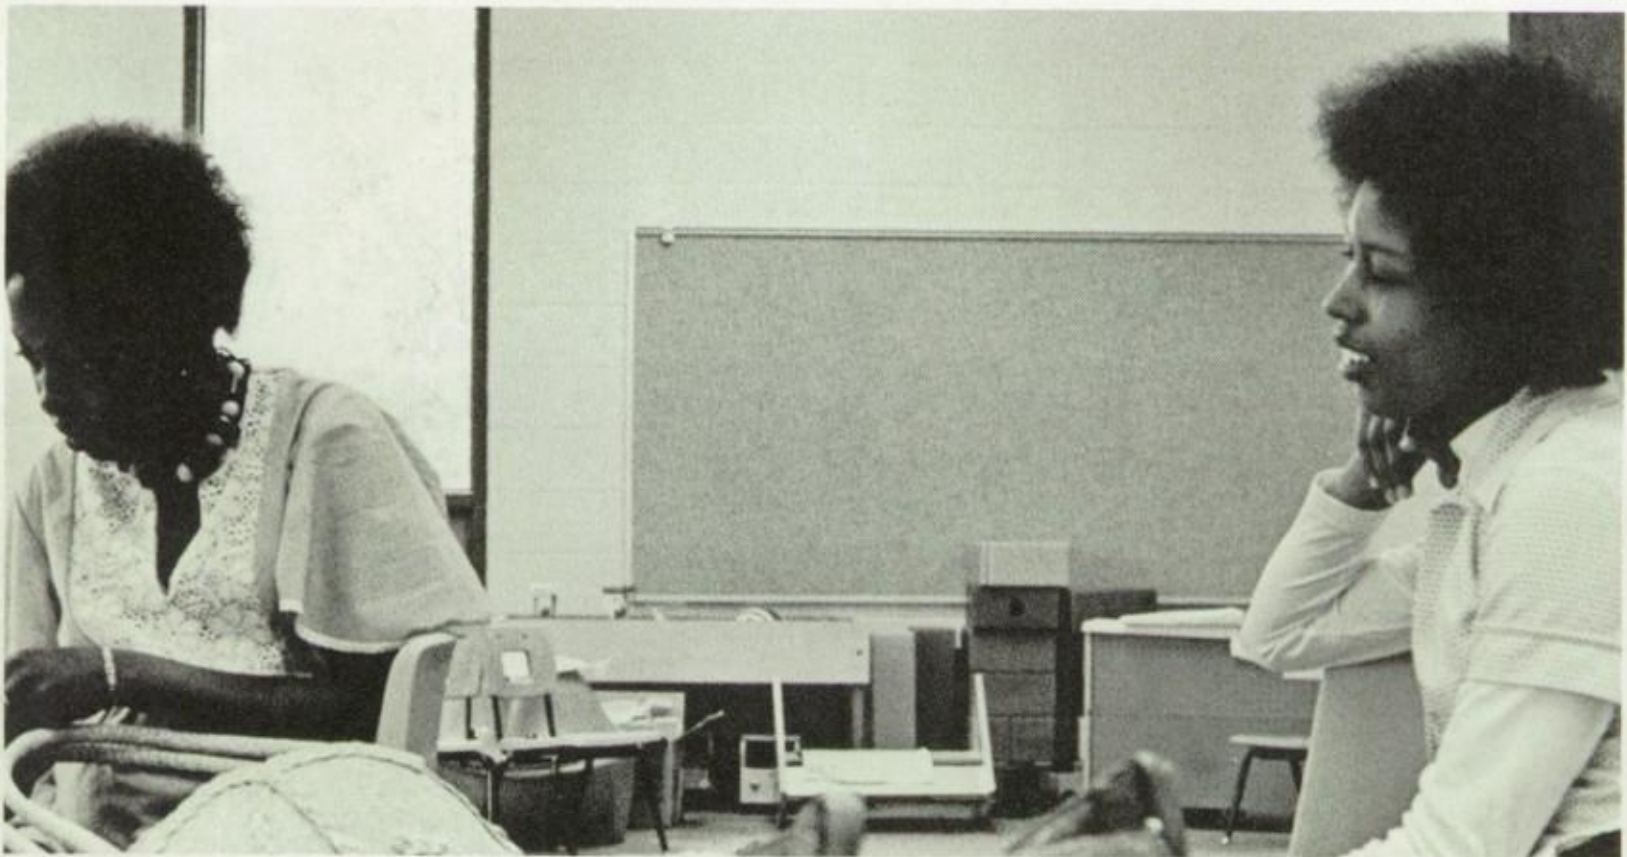

VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL CENTER

A dream becomes a reality. The much needed Vocational-Technical Center, designed to train students for employment immediately after graduation, started operation this year. The center is open to all four high schools in Campbell County. Many students from William Campbell attend the center, which has two sessions. The morning session is from 9:05 to 11:35 and the afternoon session is from 12:05 to 2:35.

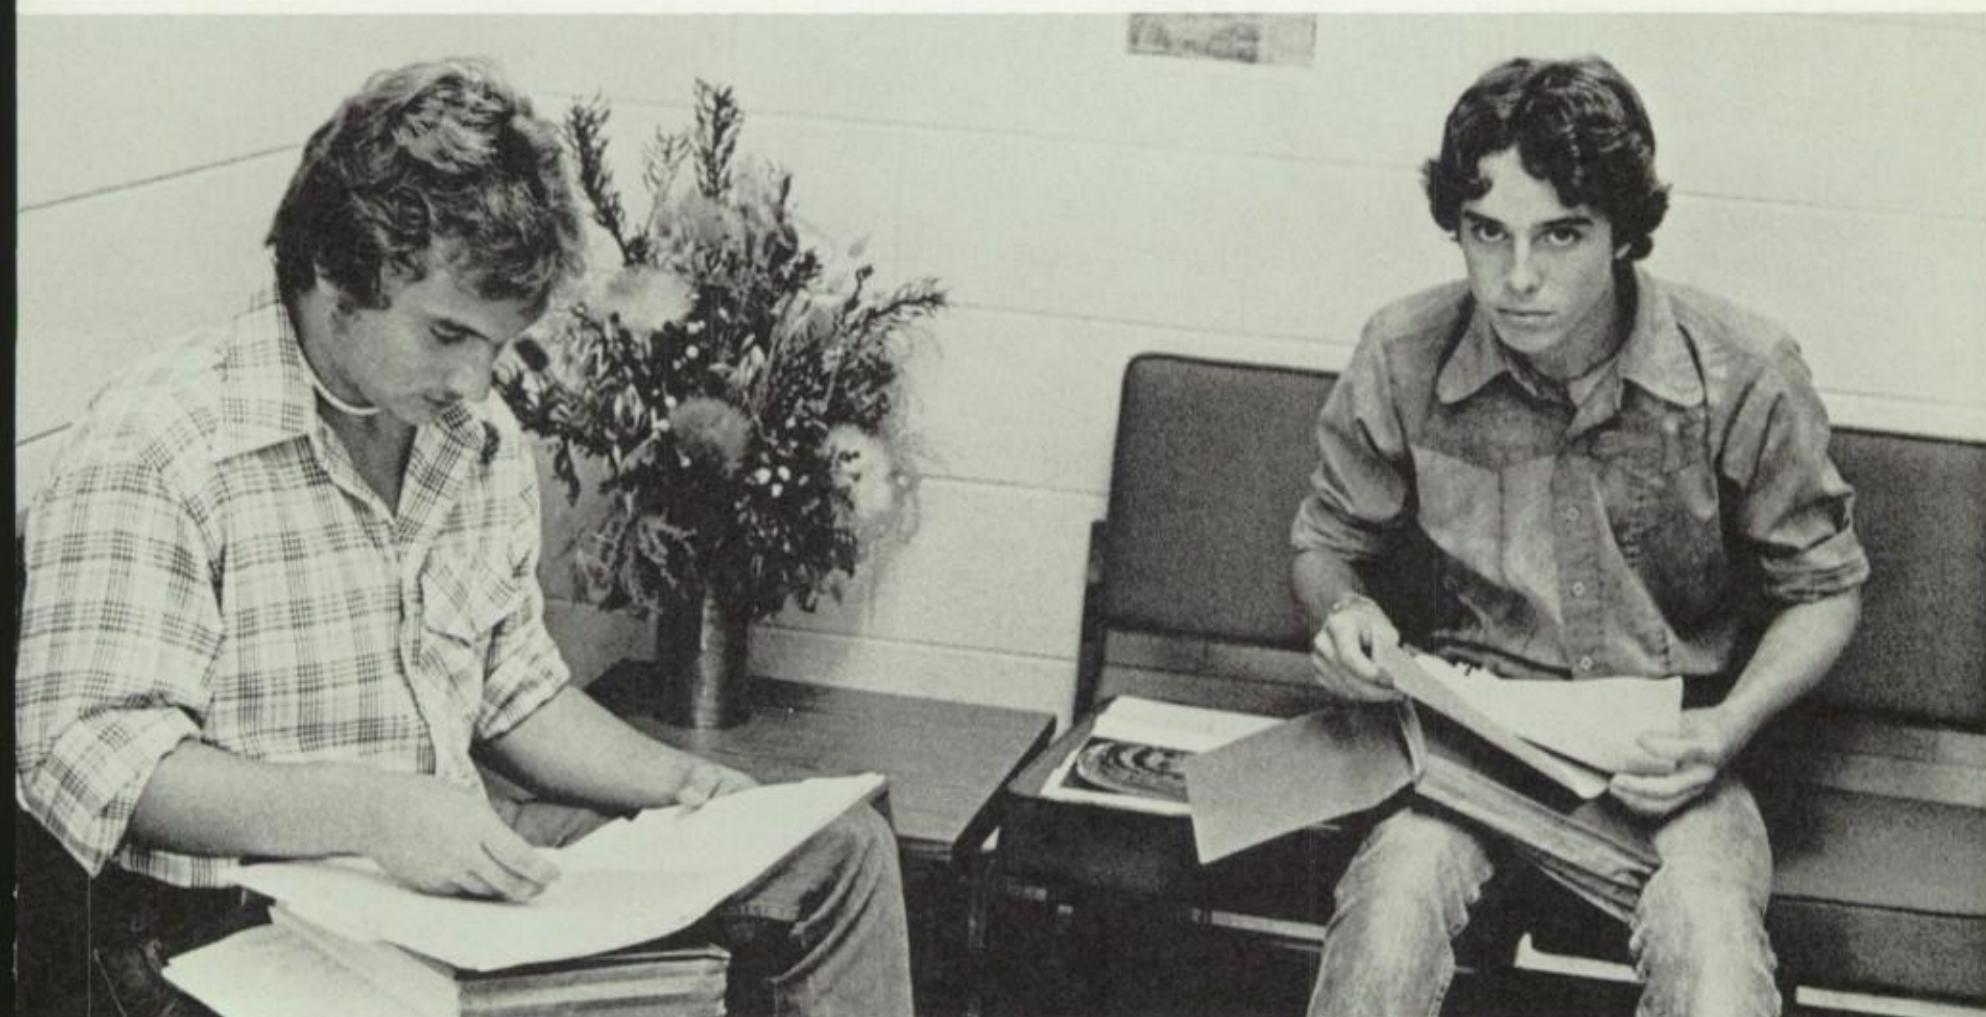

Among the many two year period courses offered are Auto Mechanics, Drafting, Electronics, and Child Care. In addition to the regular courses offered, a program, called Accent, was set up for honor students. Its main objective is to create a different and exciting method of learning. The Accent students gained credits toward graduation in English and government.

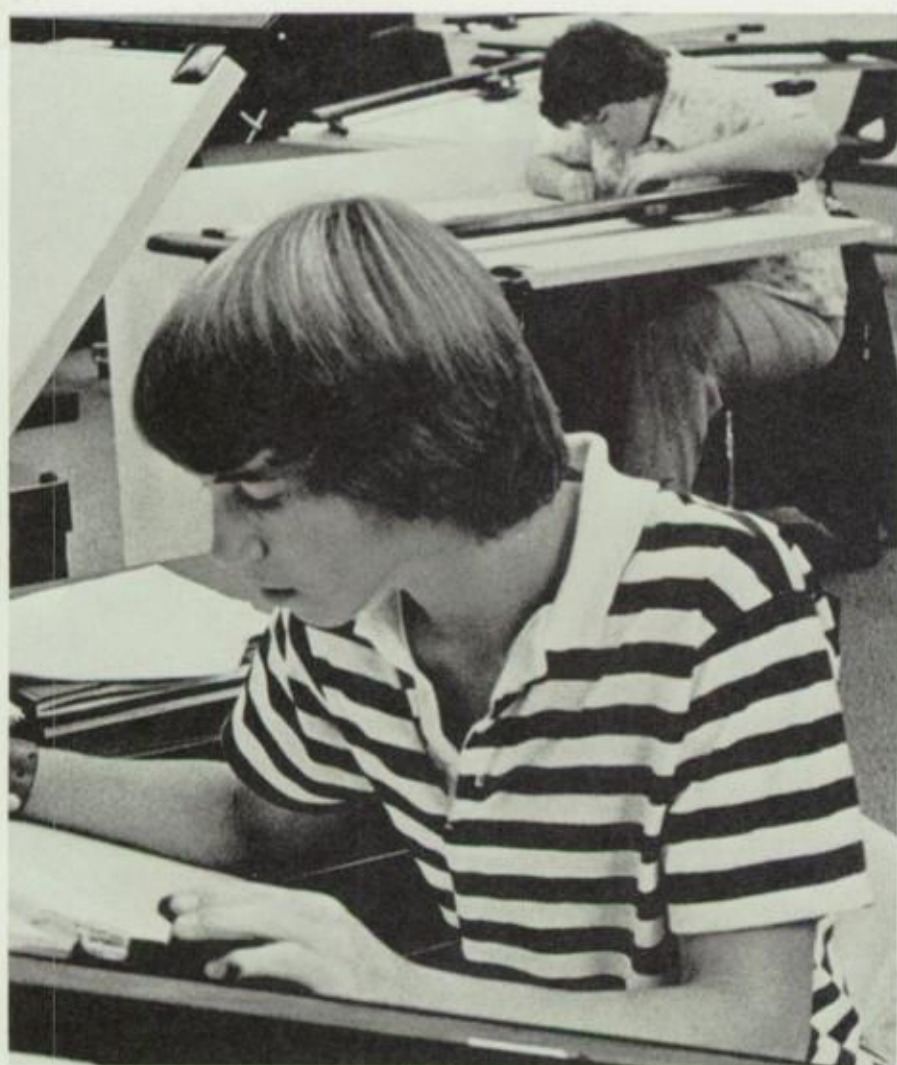

In Auto Mechanics James Crabtree seems to be in a world of his own.

After working in their Child Care class, Minnie Jennings and Wanda Nowlin wait to go home.

At the Vo-Tech Center, Glen Epperson and Van Tanner work on objectives of the Accent program.

Preparing a rough sketch in drafting is Kenneth Davis.

To gain more insight in the Electronics class, Mike Jefferson does his reading assignment.

Binnie Nash Wins National Forest Management Award

During a regular work day, Binnie Nash fixes his skidder so he can get back to work.

NASH WINS NATIONAL FOREST MANAGEMENT AWARD

Binnie Nash has been named the top FFA member in the nation in Forest Management. Nash was recognized last week at the National FFA Convention with a plaque and a monetary award.

The Forest Management Proficiency Award, Sponsored by Weyerhaeuser Company, is presented annually by the National FFA Foundation to the top student in the nation. The highly coveted award is presented to recognize the accomplishments of an FFA member seeking a career in Forestry. Applicants for the Forest Management Proficiency Award must show activities and experiences in the classroom and on the job which provide a background for career development in the forest industry.

All FFA members who complete supervised experience programs and classroom instruction in forest management as part of their vocational agriculture instruction are eligible for the award. To participate, FFA members submit an application on which they record their training and experience in forest management. Requirements on the application include an annual breakdown of forest enterprises showing expenses and labor income; a complete inventory of forest equipment owned fully by the applicant; a listing of forestry projects accomplishments such as tree seedlings planted, board feet of lumber and pulpwood harvested, etc.; a statement of marketing experiences; and a listing of ten skills and competencies learned as a result of training in vocational agriculture. Each applicant for the National Award must submit slides depicting various phases of his activities and program. The regional winners, which are four in the nation, are interviewed by a panel of judges before the national winner is determined.

Applicants are also required to give a financial statement showing net worth and they may list activities outside the school which relate to their occupational goal in forestry. Finally, applicants for the Forest Management Award must show FFA and extracurricular school activities in which they have participated.

Competing for the National Forest Management Proficiency Award included Bryan Mobley of Macclenny, Florida representing the Southern Region of the nation; David Udovich of Orr, Minnesota of the Central Region. Seth Boettcher of Elbe, Washington from the Western Region; and Binnie Nash of Gladys, Virginia representing the Eastern region.

Binnie Nash, the National Forest Management award winner, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Nash of Gladys, Virginia. He is a member of the William Campbell FFA Chapter. A June graduate of William Campbell High School, young Nash is in the process of establishing his own independent logging operation. Already Binnie is well on the way to becoming established in the business, having obtained the necessary equipment including saws, trucks, loader and skidder. Binnie's interest in Forest Management began early since his family owns and operates the H. S. Nash Timber Corporation of Gladys, Virginia. Even before he enrolled in Vocational Agriculture classes and the FFA at William Campbell High School, Binnie worked in the family operation learning the business and skills of operating heavy logging machinery. Since enrolling in Vocational Agriculture, Binnie has expanded his own logging operation to a crew of four men, and a tremendous investment in equipment. According to his Vocational Agriculture instructor, James D. Puckett, Binnie is an outstanding student who "has continued to seek information and improve his skills. He is an outstanding forestry team member who is able to reason and apply sound management ideas," says Puckett. Always interested in conservation and improvement of timberlands, Binnie practices selective cutting, observes safety procedures, and has planted over 11,000 pine seedlings. He has served the William Campbell FFA Chapter as its president, treasurer and sentinel. Also, he has been a member of the Forestry Judging Team, and Degree Team. Other activities include Boys State Delegate, Track Team, Football Team, Varsity Club and Church Choir.

The accomplishments of this individual is very dependent upon many — his parents, teachers, school administration and the community. Our community should be very proud, but should remember that opportunities can only be afforded the young people through community and school administration support.

Musical

Auditions for the Spring Musical were held the first two weeks after our return from Christmas vacation. Practice began the third week in January with three practices a week. This was increased to four a week after the basketball season ended. The production was entitled "Finian's Rainbow." The cast, band, and crew numbered 112, five of them former students. The production was directed by Mr. C. Edwin Temples. Choreography was done by Miss Suzanne Farmer. Concert Mistress was Miss Rose Peak.

The play is about an Irishman Finian McLonergan and his daughter Sharon, who have immigrated to America. McLonergan has borrowed a crock of gold to try out a theory. The leprechaun who owned the crock has followed him to America. The crock carries with it three wishes. These wishes, when used, change all of Rainbow Valley, Missitucky (where Finian and Sharon have settled) and the people who live there.

In the musical, "Finian's Rainbow" the leprechaun (Ricky Fisher) appears before Sharon (Emily DeJarnette) to tell her that he loves her.

While singing "Old Devil Moon Reprise" in the musical "Finian's Rainbow", Emily DeJarnette playing the part as Sharon McLonergan and Eddie Hughes as Woody McHoney, practice for the musical.

SPORTS

Sports played a big part in student life at W.C. There was more enthusiasm and student support than last year. Students relied a great deal on games and pep rallies to keep up the school spirit. Students were behind the Generals all the way. As a result of group effort from the teams, coaches and students, the records proved to be better than in the past.

Going up for a key pass against Gretna is Tony Herdon (no. 80).

Trying to score a point against Gretna are Donna Harris and Joy Marshall.

Charging onto the field, the "Mighty Generals" prepare to stomp Gretna.

Waiting for the results of the play just sent in are Coach Ronnie Cox, Coach Jerry Smith, and teammates.

FOOTBALL

Varsity Football

An experienced defense, which was second in the district, and an unseasoned offensive line led the Generals to a 7-3 record. The Generals again played the spoiler by knocking Brookville out of a playoff position.

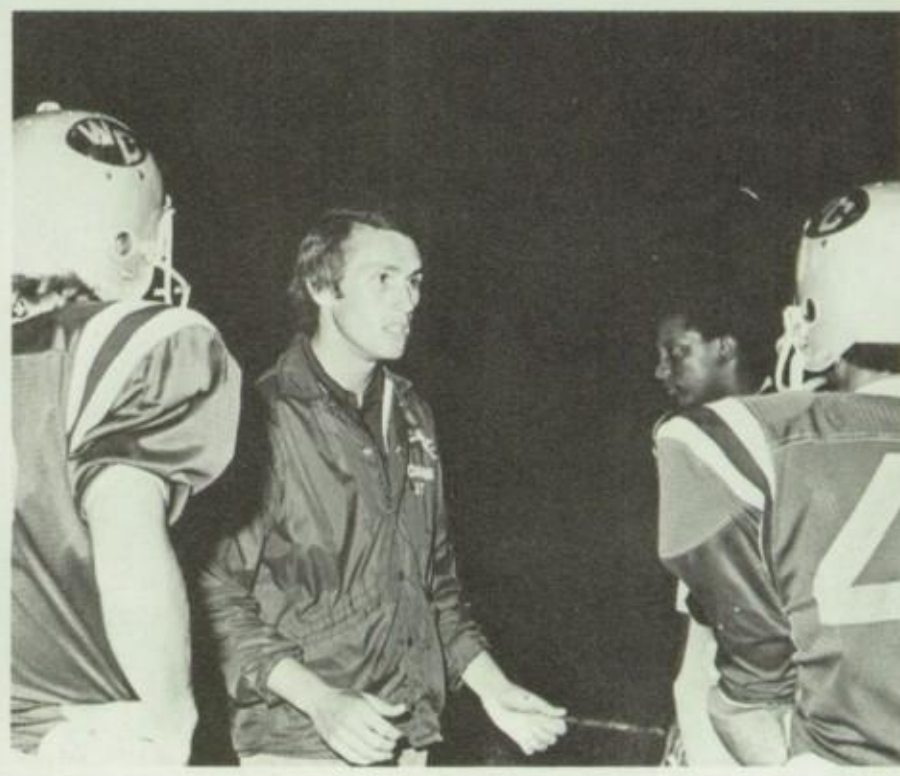

There were 21 returning players from last year and with the help of the recruits the Generals had the best record since 1969. A couple of close games lost to Lexington and Appomattox slowed the Generals down but did not stop them.

J.V. Football

Striving for the future was the case for the J.V.'s. The team was young and inexperienced with only four returning players. Of the team members 34 were eighth graders, which will prove good for the future varsity football team. The J.V.'s ended their season with a 3-4-1 record.

Boy's Basketball

The Basketball Team was under new direction with Head Coach Mr. Elliott Watkins and Assistant Coach Mr. Keith Scruggs. The squad proved they could meet the demands of the new coaches as they had the best record in five years. The cagers showed a lot of hustle and proved they could work together as a team. The players lacked height, but a strong defense and a patterned offense made up for it. At time of publication, the record was 7-4 overall, and 5-4 in the district.

The Junior Varsity Boys Basketball Team, coached by Mr. George Clark, played outstanding basketball, winning eight of their first eleven games. They had important wins against Gretna, Rustburg, and Jefferson Forest and showed poise by winning close games against Brookville and Appomattox. Tri-captains for the team were David Hubbard, Reggie Mosby, and Clarence Walker.

Girl's Basketball

For the first time this year there were so many girls trying out for the Basketball team that a Junior Varsity team was established. The J.V. team, coached by Mr. David Shelton, was led by Co-Captains Fannie Hancock and Faye McIvor. The team put in a lot of time and work and expected a great season.

The Varsity team, coached by Miss Sharon Denney, was improved over last year. Co-Captains Donna Harris and Bonnie Lipcomb led the team. Everyone worked hard and showed a lot of spirit.

Cheerleaders

More than any other group in the school, the Football and Basketball Cheerleaders do the most to encourage school spirit and pep. They spread spirit through the school during both game seasons. The cheerleaders are often called the "spirit makers" because they do so much to keep the team's and school's spirit up through victory and defeat.

There were two new additions to the cheerleading squad this year. For the first time there were J.V. Football Cheerleaders composed of girls in the 8th and 9th grade, and both cheerleading squads added a General mascot.

The cheerleaders worked hard during the year and last summer, both groups attended camp for a week last summer. The cheerleaders sold school stickers, posters, and candles as one of their money making projects.

The Varsity Basketball Cheerleaders introduce themselves with a hello cheer at their first pep rally in the gym.

Encouraging the team on at the Rustburg game are Vivian Bennett and Greg Williams, The General.

Pep Rallies

Pep rallies were held to promote school spirit for the various team sports. Most of them were held in the gym during the last fifteen minutes of the day.

Most of the student body just stood around and did very little to promote spirit. However, there were some students who really got fired up by chanting cheers. The pep band played "The Horse," Brasses Wild," and the school song.

The spirit stick was awarded to the class that made the most noise during the cheer, "We've got the Whole School on our Side."

The Varsity Football Cheerleaders, Vivian Bennett, Glennis St. John, and Vanessa Payne, lead the student body in cheers at the pep rally before the home game against Appomattox.

Getting ready for the Homecoming pep rally are Greg Williams, the General mascot; Mrs. Barbara Clark and Mrs. Hollis Smith, Varsity Football Cheerleading sponsors; and Ricky Wilkes.

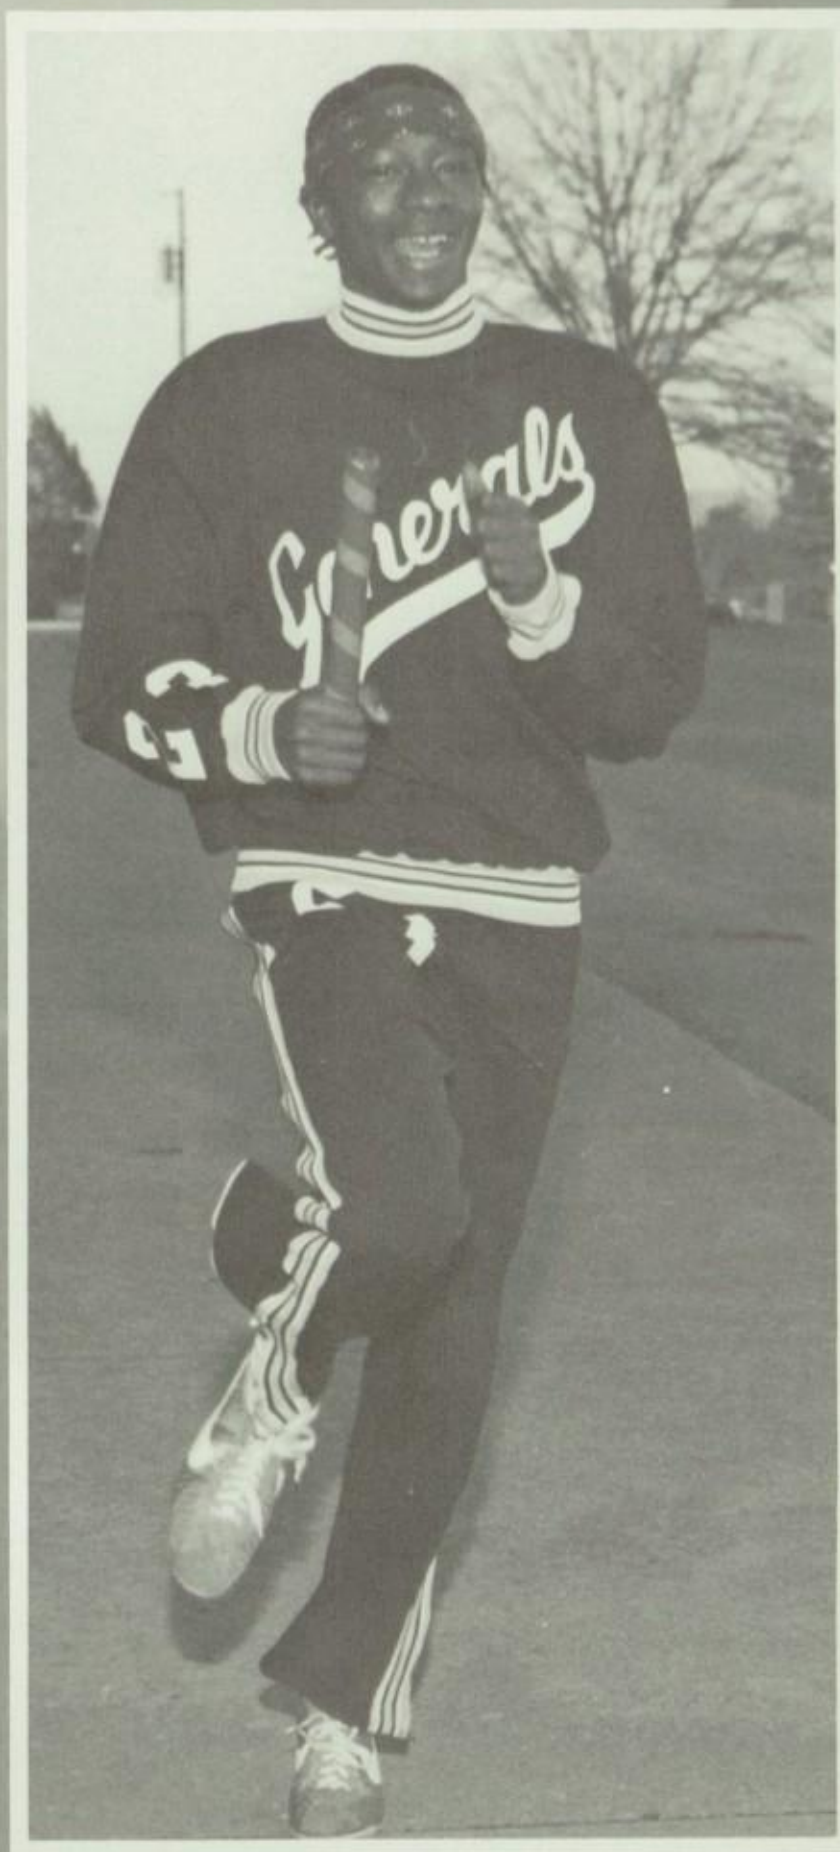

On Varsity Slave Day, the Friday afternoon preceding the Homecoming game against Nelson County, the Varsity Football Cheerleaders, some wearing football jerseys, led the student body in cheers during the pep rally held outside on the front lawn.

At the Homecoming pep rally, held on the front lawn of the school, the Basketball Cheerleaders and the Junior Varsity Football Cheerleaders help raise school spirit for the football game.

Indoor Track

The Indoor Track Team was coached by Mr. Jerry Smith. There were 20 members on the team. The coach said, "This was the strongest team in school's history." They are a real contender for the district championship.

With the baton is Theodore McIvor practicing running relays.

Warming up for the high hurdles is Al Berkley.

Going through the motions of a sprinter is John Mosby.

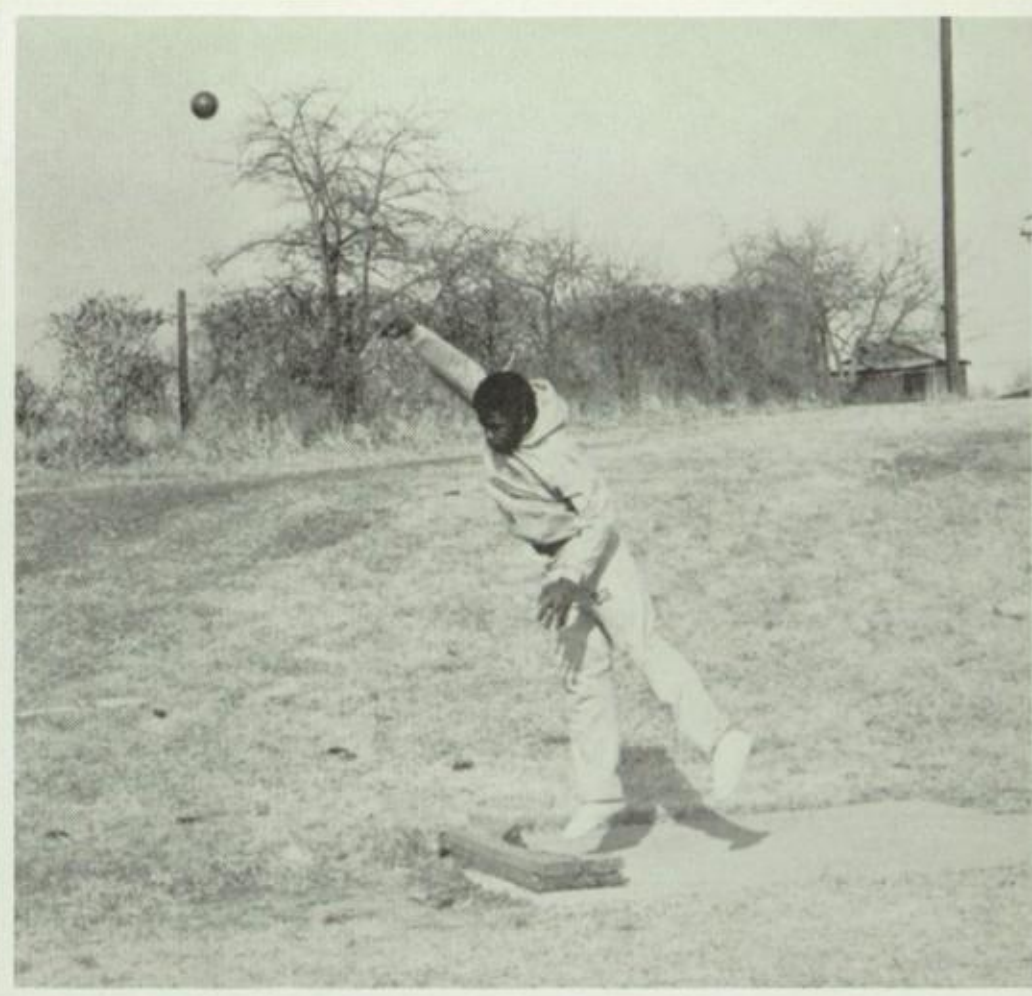

Outdoor Track

For the last several years the William Campbell track teams have been very competitive in the district competition. Mr. Jerry Smith, head coach of the cindermen for the last three years has brought William Campbell to be a respected school in the area of track.

In this sport the effort of the individual winning his particular event can decide the win-team. It's not exactly a team sport like football. If every team member is dedicated and determined to win his or her event the team will prosper.

There are two types of events in which a person can excel in. One is field events where you have the shot-put, high jump, pole vault, long jump and many others. The other events are running ones like the mile run, mile relay, two mile run high hurdles.

During the season the track team will compete in district meets. At the end of the season there are meets where all the teams in the district compete all together, these are the district and Campbell County meets. Regional and State meets are held for schools all over the state of Virginia.

At track practice James Hamlett throws the shot put.

Throwing the discus is David Scott.

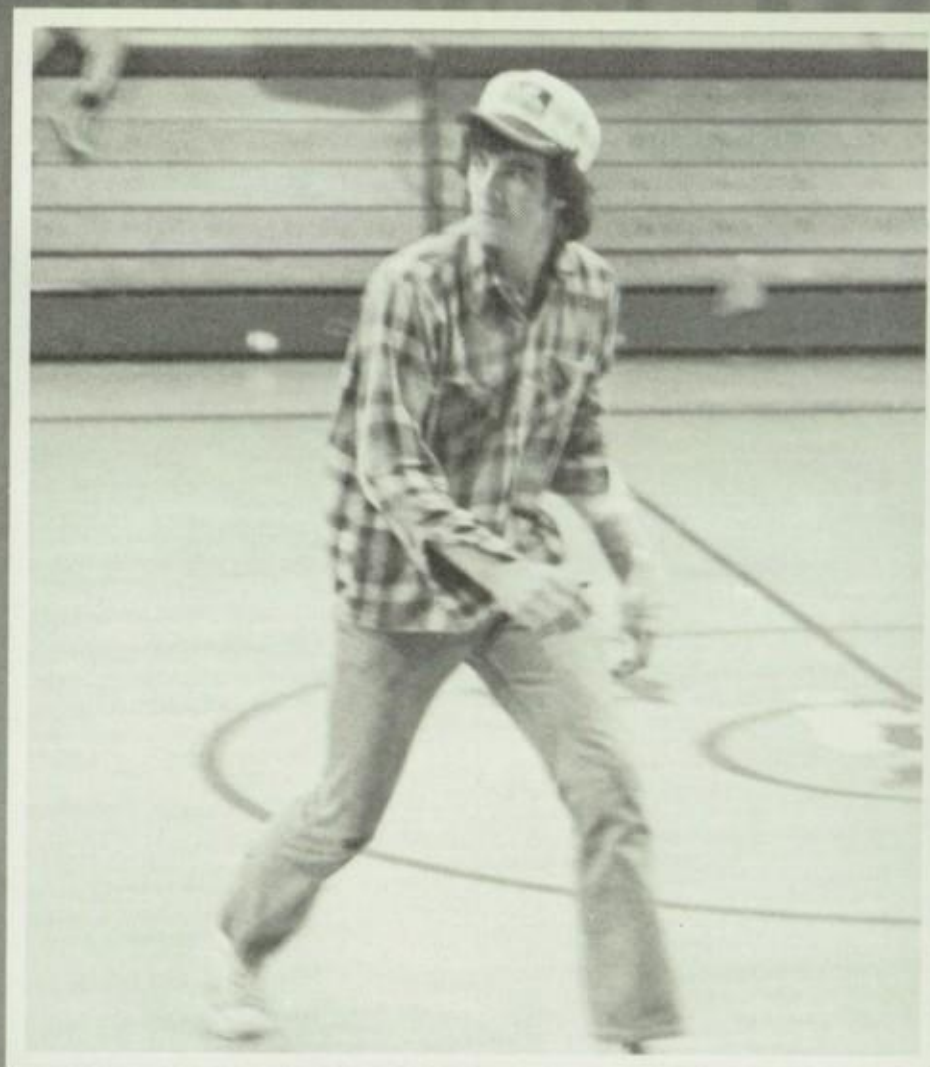

Running the 600 yard dash? No, it is members of the outdoor track team practicing.

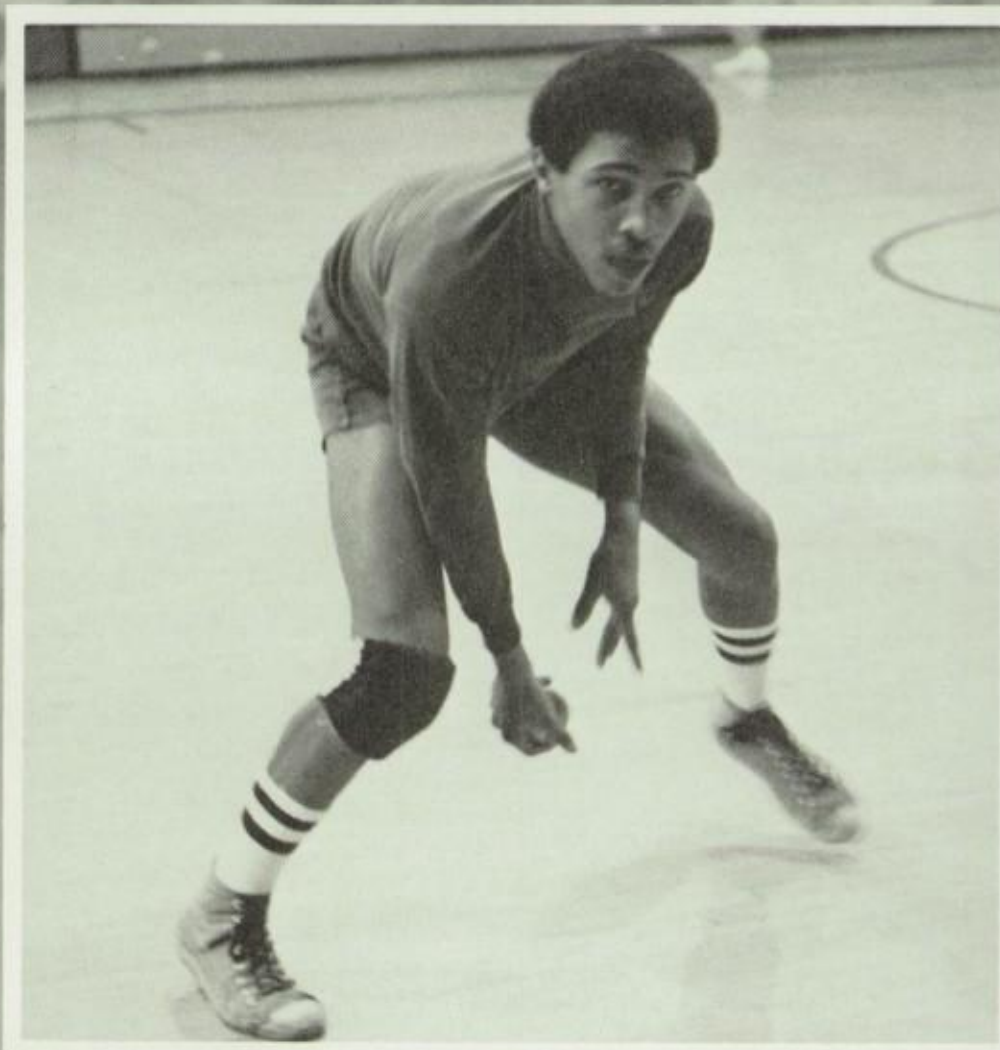

Taking their warm up lap around the football field are Glen Nowlin, Howard Calloway, Benji Ginther, Bryant Nowlin, Jasper Robertson, and Thomas Stevens.

Baseball

The Generals had three pre-season scrimmages. With mostly ninth and tenth graders on the team and a new coaching staff with Mr. Keith Scruggs and Mr. Carl Koenig, the squad lacked experience for the most part. With six starters returning from last year, the Generals strived to work together as a team.

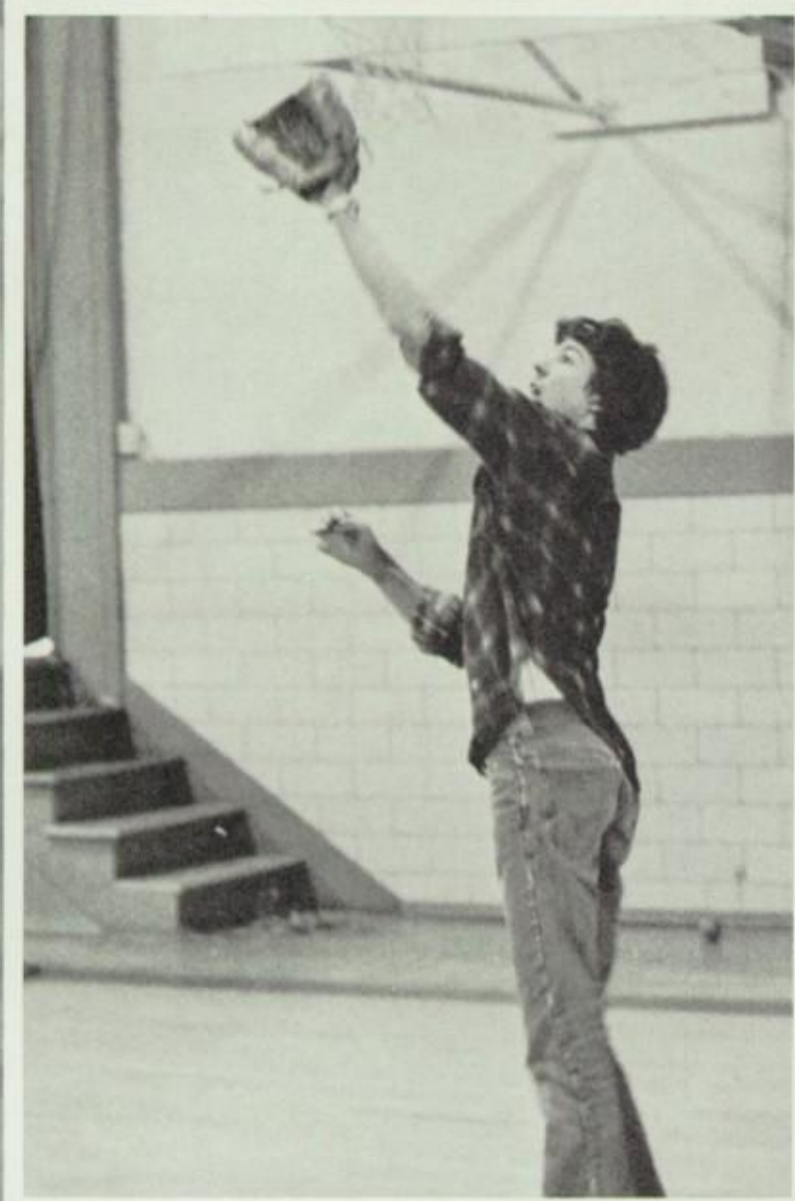

Pitcher Billy Garrett improves his moves to first base.

Bobby Patrick practices hand and eye coordination.

At baseball tryouts, Elery Brown practices catching.

After school during baseball practice Danny Mays helps the catcher with the wild pitch drill.

At baseball practice Watt Foster and Kevin Shorter are caught goofing off.

VOLLEYBALL

The 1976 Volleyball Team was young and inexperienced with only four returning team members. Although the seasons won-lost record did not adequately show the improvement of the team, the girl's skill level, enthusiasm, and dedication to the game made every game played a victory in itself. This year's co-captains, Donna Harris and Tanya Harper, added to the success the girls felt as a team.

Softball

Under the direction of Coach Barry Rice, the softball team started practice on March 7. Thirty-five girls tried out for the team, but two cuts reduced the number to eighteen. There were seven players returning from last year's team. The first game was scheduled for April 1 against Liberty.

At softball tryouts, Coach Barry Rice gives instructions to the girls out on the field.

Slugging the ball toward outfield is Bonnie Lipscomb while the other girls wait for their turn.

Girls trying out for softball anxiously await the start of practice.

Strike three, you're out! Cynthia Clark misses the ball for the third time.

Tennis

This was the second year for the tennis team, and there was a new coach, Mr. Elliott Davis. Starting February 22, practice was held outside on the tennis courts every afternoon at 3:00, if weather permitted. There were fifteen players trying out for the team, three returning from last year's team, but Coach Davis had to cut it down to ten. The first of ten scheduled matches was to be played on April 5 against Rustburg.

Team work is the key to every sport. Eddie Hughes illustrates this point by returning the balls to Bonnie Moon at tennis practice.

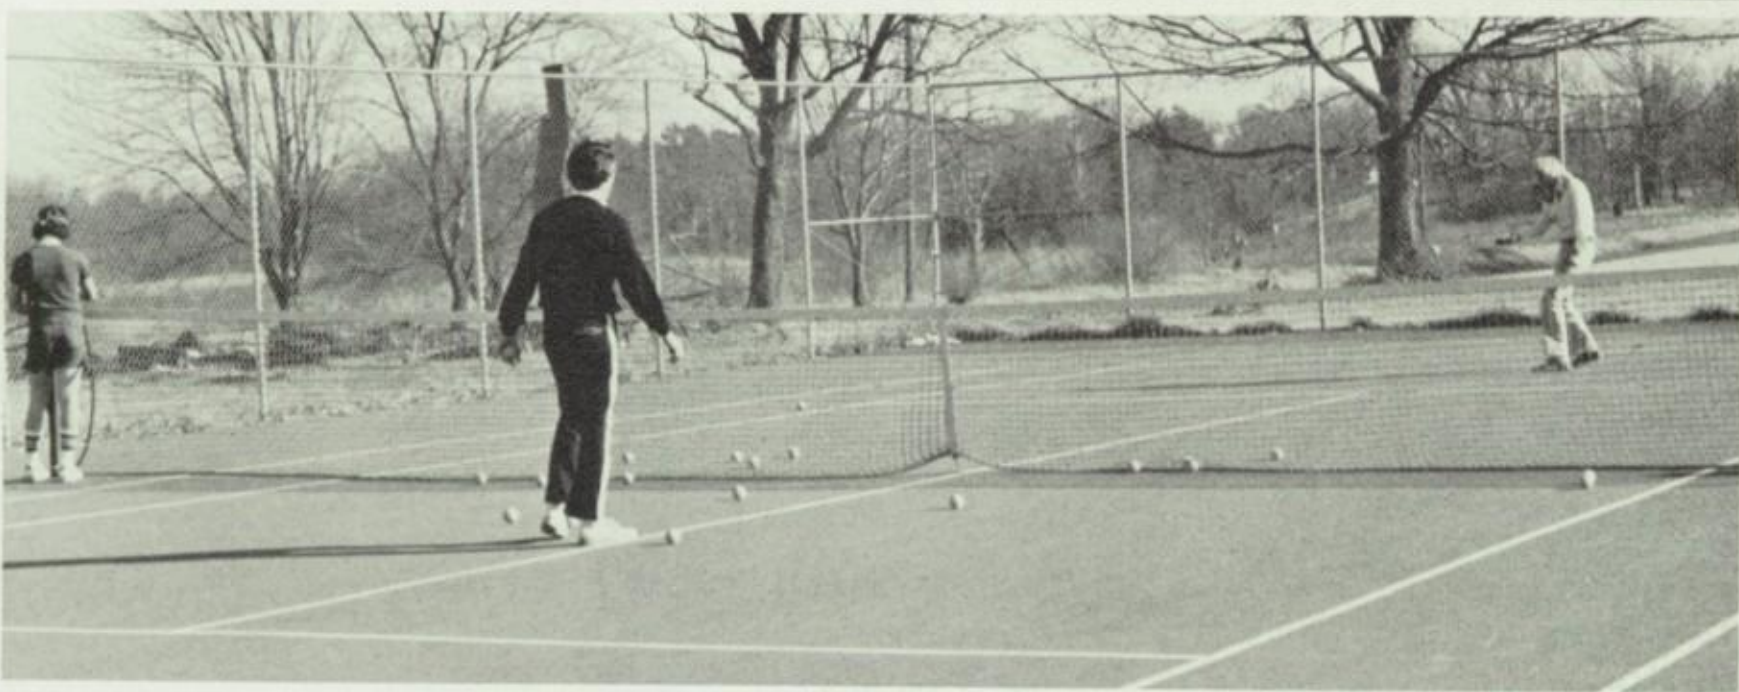

Among the eighteen students trying out for the tennis team were Kenneth Davis, Bonnie Moon, David Britton, and Bobby Leggett.

During tennis tryouts Rhonda Crabtree practices her forehand shot, as Mark Scott, Chris Corish, Mark Smith, and Mark Miller wait for their turn.

Returning the ball is Darryl Younger.

Supervising tennis tryouts is Coach Elliot Davis.

S.C.A. — Homeroom Representatives

The S.C.A. council tried to present the student body with many different activities and assemblies for the purpose of everyone having fun and enjoying school together.

They sponsored a rock concert at the beginning of the year, in which a band from Florida played. The S.C.A. was also in charge of the Homecoming halftime performance and the Homecoming Dance afterwards. In February, the S.C.A. enabled the "sweethearts" of W.C. to have a Valentine Dance which turned out to be a successful one.

Every club needs money to operate and the S.C.A. sold William Campbell T-shirts to the students as one of their money-making projects.

The Beta Club kept very busy with such activities as fixing bulletin boards, having cookouts and softball games, and initiating new members. They also observed their annual National Beta Club Week and National Teacher Appreciation Week.

Yearbook Staff

It was a lot of hard work trying to publish a yearbook that captured the entire school year and satisfied the student body.

Preparations for the 1977 yearbook began last May when some of the members attended a workshop at the University of Virginia. Six members of the staff also attended Longwood 76 where they got ideas on covers, staff organization and other matters.

The members sometimes stayed after school in order to meet deadlines. Loss of work time, due to snow days, complicated meeting the second and third deadline dates. Despite many complications, the yearbook was finally completed.

The Future Homemakers of America is an organization made up of girls and boys who are enrolled in Home Economics or have had one year of Home Economics.

The theme was Take A Giant Step Toward the Future. The monthly programs consisted of guest speakers, (Mrs. Brenda Story who spoke on Career Opportunities and Rev. Ben Parmer), panel discussions, skits, and installations of new officers in May.

Activities that the club members can participate in are two Federation Rallies, the local chapter's programs, a picnic in the spring, and a social event for members and their mothers.

The F.H.A. sponsored a record hop and had bake sales to raise money.

Future Business Leaders of America is an organization composed of students who are currently enrolled in a business class. The members made posters and placed them around the school buildings to encourage students to join. All Club meetings were either held before or after school so the old members really had to do some recruiting to obtain new members. At the club meetings guest speakers from some of the businesses in the area came to speak to the members. Refreshments were served at some of the club meetings.

In March the members and Mrs. Sylvia Riddle, sponsor, attended the Longwood Regional F.B.L.A. Convention at Longwood College in Farmville, Va. At the convention the members are able to participate in various contests such as Typing I and II, Shorthand I and II, Mr. F.B.L.A., Miss F.B.L.A., etc. F.B.L.A. also ran Robin Burnette for Regional Historian. Robin served as the Regional Historian for the 76-77 session.

Teacher's Introduction

The forty-six faculty members included two administrators, three secretaries, two teacher aides, two counselors, and thirty-seven classroom instructors. Each one had specific duties according to his or her job. Like the students, the teachers' day does not end at 2:55. Most of the teachers spent many hours out of class working with students in various activities, clubs, and sports. As a result, teachers became like a parent to the students; someone with whom they could talk to about their problems.

Being a teacher at a small school like W.C. had its advantages. The teacher could generally work with their students on a one to one basis. One of the disadvantages was that the faculty had a difficult time trying to provide for the students the same curriculum and extra activities as that of a larger school. This situation demanded a greater share of responsibility to be undertaken by fewer persons. In addition to greater teacher effort, it also required more student input.

Waiting for students to sign up for their English classes are Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Jennings.

Enjoying their lunch are, Mr. Danny DeJarnette, Mr. Berry, Mrs. Ruth Johnston, Mr. David Shelton, and Mr. J. D. Puckett.

Among those who chaperoned the Sweetheart Dance were Mrs. Carolyn Lusardi and Mr. James L. Peak.

Singing various Christmas songs is Mixed Chorus, directed by Mr. Edward Temples.

In the reading trailer, Mrs. Drucilla Green and Miss Charla Wesley chat about the Christmas tree.

To answer questions students may have, Mr. Kerns talks to Terry King and Nancy Guthrie while Mr. Hoffman and other representatives from Central Virginia Community College talk to students.

While waiting for the speaker from CVCC to talk to them, Donna Harris, Sally Lee, and Vivian Bennett talk about going to college.

Using the telephone between class in the office is Rebecca Hubbard, while Mrs. Ann Poe is at her desk.

SENIORS

It may have been a hard and rough road to travel but we finally made it. We were the Senior Class of '77! Being a senior was a big honor for a student; from the time we were in the eighth grade we waited for the year to come when we would be called the "mighty seniors." Well, that year came. It was an honor to be a senior, but we had a lot of responsibilities to carry. We were responsible for setting an example for all of our underclassmen and we had a responsibility to prepare for our future.

These past five years held a lot of precious and happy memories for most of us. Remember when we were the little eighth graders way back in 1973 and everybody picked on us. Then in the ninth grade we were freshmen and were able to join a lot of clubs and take part in more sports. By the tenth grade, we were classified as the "in between" class because we had completed two years and we had two more years ahead of us. Then when the next year rolled around we were the juniors. We ordered class rings, sponsored the prom, and realized that we only had one more year to go.

It is hard to believe that we finally reached the top—we were seniors! We had a lot of decisions to make. Which senior picture should I order? How many graduation announcements do I need? Should I get a class key? The most important decision seniors had to make was what to do after graduation. Should I go to college or get a job?

Being a senior had a few privileges such as cutting in the lunch line, leaving for lunch five minutes earlier than other students, selecting English electives first, Senior Day, and most important Graduation Day.

A senior realizes that these past five years have probably been the best years of his or her life. We have learned a great deal, made friends, and lost a few friends. Though we made the best of our last year in high school, it really scares most of us to leave W.C. because we do not know what lies ahead.

In the cafeteria, Kipp Burch talks to Mr. Hoffman from C.V.C.C. about the fall semester.

Trying hard to concentrate, David Guthrie and Teresa Guthrie study government notes while Danny Jennings looks out the window.

SOPHOMORES

Being a sophomore means that you only have two more years of school left. Sophomores are caught in the middle between the Eighth and Ninth Graders, who are trying to get established in school, and the Juniors and Seniors, who are trying to decide what to do when they get out of school. Being in the middle helps sophomores enjoy school life more, because they don't have to worry about either of these things.

For most sophomores, the high point of the year was receiving a driver's license. They could compete in varsity sports and some were interested in being eligible for the Beta Club. This was the last year of Physical Education for sophomores, and some sophomores attended the Vo-Tech Center for half of the day.

In his sophomore Physical Education class Mr. Keith Scruggs gives Coretta Younger some instructions as the class participates in a dribbling drill.

FRESHMEN

Ninth-graders, proud to assume the title of Freshman, were glad to have the uncertainties of the Eighth grade behind them. They turned their attention to becoming a more influential part of the General family by showing their spirit at pep rallies and ball games. They took part in various activities such as Junior Varsity sports including football, basketball, and baseball and such organizations as F.H.A., F.F.A., and the Science Club.

Many Freshmen added a foreign language to their schedules and took various classes including World History, Science 9, or Algebra I in order to obtain credit for graduation.

Between classes, Keziah Barbour goes to her locker to get the books she needs for her next class.

Eighth Graders

From the top to the bottom could best describe the eighth grade. They have gone from the top class in elementary school to the bottom class in high school. This year's class, third biggest in the school, has brought some changes with them. For the first time there were three eighth graders on the J. V. Football Cheerleading Squad, two eighth graders in the Ensemble, and one eighth grader on the Majorette Squad. Each eighth grader was assigned a faculty member to serve as an advisor.

The incoming class has added much to our band and J. V. teams. They were able to join clubs such as FHA, FFA and Science and participated wildly in the pep rallies, winning the Spirit Stick on one occasion.

At McDonald's, on the band's way back from the Tobacco Festival, Donna Williams waits in line to order her something to eat.

Eighth Graders

Micheal Wooten
Althea Younger
Warren Younger

Eighth graders like horsing around with the "ole pigskin" during lunch.

In Mrs. Seamester's class Sonya Wilkes, and Cernelia Scott draw a bulletin board.

In a hurry to get out of the aim of snowballs, Mike Ginther walks down the sidewalk.

In the bandroom during 3rd period, Kevin Jennings is caught by surprise as he relaxes at the end of class.

While in second period Government, Mike Layne goes through Glenda Nowlin's pocketbook.

As we look back over the school year of 1976-77, through the eyes of the General family, we saw that it was, in many ways, like all the other years that have gone by. The General family, composed of the students and teachers of William Campbell High School, attended their scheduled classes together, ate lunch together, talked together, laughed together and even cried together sometimes. The family went to a lot of exciting ballgames and other activities together; some of them proved to be victories; others defeat.

In a lot of ways the year was very unlike any other year, for a few members of the family. The seniors, knew they would never be together again. The other members of the family (eighth through eleventh graders) realize that this just might be the last year that our school would look like it does now.

What does the future for William Campbell High School look like now? Bids for the new school will go out in the fall. The existing gym, main building and agriculture building will be used as a middle school for seventh and eighth graders.

In front of the existing school building will be the new academic building with administrative offices in the front and a media center. A new auditorium and bandroom will be added. The existing annex and bandroom will be torn down and turned into a new parking lot. A new track field will be also added.

The school will have a whole new look. However all of us remember "the way we were."

While at a volleyball game, Joni Woodell and Tanya Harper try to have teamwork to win the volleyball game.

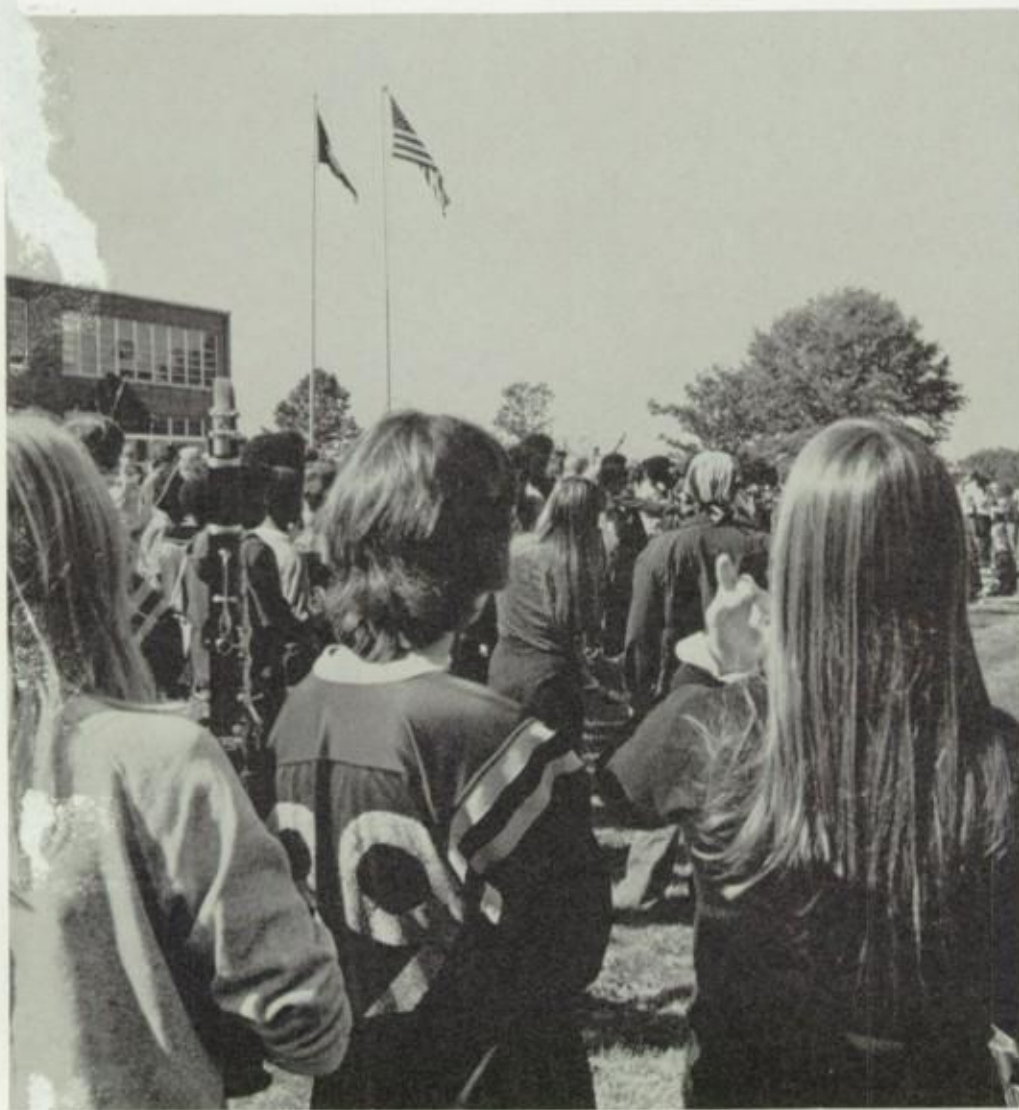

Between class in the bandroom, Debbie McKinney and Denise Smith, enjoy a little free time to themselves.

The Family

Singing their interpretation of "The Lighter Days of Christmas" during the Christmas Concert are the Boys and Girls Ensemble.

Between cheers, and when they are not playing, members of the band watch the crowd at the Homecoming pep rally.

Seniors Bill Hodges, Danny Jennings, Wanda Nowlin, and Glenda Nowlin sit quietly passing the time away during Mr. Elliott Watkins' second period Government class.

On their way to class is Danny Jennings, Robin Brasuell, and Laura Perry, as Bernard Wright heads in the opposite direction.

Meeting in the bandroom before musical practice are Cheryl Britton, Glen Epperson, Angie Blanks, and Nancy Rosser.

The Family

As Director of "Finian's Rainbow," Mr. Temple helps the cast members up on stage.

While in Mrs. Clark's fourth period Art class, Gail McCraw molds an ash tray out of clay.

Honored at the Football and Volleyball Banquet were Fannie Hancock, Most Spirited; Bonnie Lipcomb, Most Valuable Player; Mark Wilkes, General Award; Bill Hodges, Best Offensive Lineman; Kevin Shorter, Best Defensive Back; Ricky Davis, Best Offensive Back; Theodore McIvor, Best Defensive Back; Robbie Putnam, Best Defensive Lineman; Mike Layne, Defensive Back.
